Italian-American History Giovanni Ermenegildo Schiavo,1975     British Cinema of the 1950s Sue Harper,Vincent Porter,2003 In this definitive and long awaited history of 1950s British cinema Sue Harper and Vincent Porter draw extensively on previously unknown archive material to chart the growing rejection of post war deference by both film makers and cinema audiences Competition from television and successive changes in government policy all forced the production industry to become more market sensitive The films produced by Rank and Ealing many of which harked back to wartime structures of feeling were challenged by those backed by Anglo Amalgamated and Hammer The latter knew how to address the rebellious feelings and growing sexual discontents of a new generation of consumers Even the British Board of Film Censors had to adopt a more liberal attitude The collapse of the studio system also meant that the screenwriters and the art directors had to cede creative control to a new generation of independent producers and film directors Harper and Porter explore the effects of these social cultural industrial and economic changes on 1950s British cinema     A Hundred Years of Grand Opera in New York, 1825-1925 Julius Mattfeld,1927     The Importance of Place in Contemporary Italian Crime Fiction Barbara Pezzotti,2012-09-20 By taking as its point of departure the privileged relationship between the crime novel and its setting this book is the most wide ranging examination of the way in which Italian detective fiction in the last twenty years has become a means to articulate the changes in the social landscape of the country Nowadays there is a general acknowledgment of the importance of place in Italian crime novels However apart from a limited scholarship on single cities the genre has never been systematically studied in a way that so comprehensively spans Italian national boundaries The originality of this volume also lies in the fact that the author have not limited her investigation to a series of cities but rather she has considered the different forms of social landscape in which Italian crime novels are set Through the analysis of the way in which cities the urban sprawl and islands are represented in the serial novels of eleven of the most important contemporary crime writers in Italy of the 1990s Pezzotti articulates the different ways in which individual authors appropriate the structures and tropes of the genre to reflect the social transformations and dysfunctions of contemporary Italy In so doing this volume also makes a case for the genre as an instrument of social critique and analysis of a still elusive Italian national identity thus bringing further evidence in support of the thesis that in Italy detective fiction has come to play the role of the new social novel
