Our Mothers, Our Selves Karen J. Donnelly, J. B. Bernstein, 1996-04-30 Finally we have an inclusive collection that brings motherhood into the fold of feminism As we accede to our universal origins in the mother we witness the infinite variety of experiences awarded the offspring Spectrums of gender race age religion class and nation give voice in Donnelly and Bernstein s anthology as more than 80 writers contribute poetry essays memoirs and short fiction Some of the artists are well known including Maya Angelou Galway Kinnell Marge Piercy Margaret Atwood and Robert Bly while others are less known All attest to the experience of motherhood as primal Writing as mothers as children to their mothers and as close observers women and men create selections that fall into three trimesters of involvement the experiences of going beyond the self beyond reflection and finally beyond the whole The many shades of emotional experience from ecstasy to horror and all points in between are portrayed in words and photographs As images take shape nightmares are relived emotions flow abundantly and details come into focus as the cathartic effect of the writing builds Painting motherhood as much more than just a pretty picture the editors purpose is clearly to bring us all together under a multi faceted umbrella of empathy and to unite us in the diversity of the experience of motherhood

Trusting Ourselves Karen Johnson, 1991 Definitive and comprehensive Trusting Ourselves is the only book to cover every aspect of psychology as it applies to women This groundbreaking work will empower its readers to understand and make decisions about their psychological well being and treatment in much the same way Our Bodies Ourselves redefined women s health care In a radical reversal of the usual approach to psychological care which assumes that only the professional understands the problem Johnson strongly believes that women and their values perspectives and biases have merit and that most patients understand why they re not happy with their lives Trusting this self knowledge and taking action on one s own behalf provide a foundation for all the information in this book It is time to revise psychotherapy to incorporate a woman s perspective

My Mother/My Self Nancy Friday, 1997-09-08 When Nancy Friday began her research for My Mother My Self in the early 1970s no work existed that explored the unique interaction between mother and daughter Today psychotherapists throughout the world acknowledge that if women are to be able to love without possessing to find work that fulfills them and to discover their full sexuality they must first acknowledge their identity as separate from their mother's Nancy Friday's book played a major role in that acceptance The greatest gift a good mother can give remains unquestioning love planted deep in the first year of life so deep and anassailable that the tiny child grown to womanhood is never held back by the fear of losing that love no matter what her own choice in love sexuality or work may be Through candid self disclosure and hundreds of interviews Friday investigates a generational legacy and reveals the conflicting feelings of anger hate and love the daughter's hold for their mothers and why they so often become that mother themselves We Don't Make Ourselves Smaller Here

We Must Not Think of Ourselves Lauren Grodstein, 2023-11-28 From a New York Times bestselling author, Lauren Grodstein, a story inspired by a little-known piece of history in the lives of Jewish occupants of the Warsaw Ghetto in World War II. Called a masterpiece and as seen on The Today Show with Jenna Pick, Madeline Miller. On a November day in 1940, Adam Paskow becomes a prisoner in the Warsaw Ghetto where the Jews of the city are cut off from their former lives and held captive by Nazi guards to await an uncertain fate. Weeks later, he is approached by a mysterious figure with a surprising request: Would he join a secret group of archivists working to preserve the truth of what is happening inside these walls? Adam agrees and begins taking testimonies from his students, friends, and neighbors. One of the people Adam interviews is his flatmate, Sala Wiskoff, who is stoic, determined, and funny, and married with two children. Over the months of their confinement in the presence of her family, they fall in love. But when Adam discovers a possible escape from the Ghetto, he is faced with an unbearable choice: whom can he save and at what cost? Inspired by the testimony-gathering project with the code name Oneig Shabbat and told with immediacy and heart, We Must Not Think of Ourselves is a piercing story of love, determination, and sacrifice.

Opting In Amy Richards, 2025-10-16 For contemporary women, motherhood has become as polarizing a proposition as it is a powerful calling. For some women, this tension is manifest in a debate over whether or not to have children. For others, it concerns whether to stay at home with their children or stay in the workforce. Still others feel abandoned altogether by the supposedly pro-family and pro-mother social justice movement that is feminism, and are at a loss when it comes to reconciling their maternal instincts with their political beliefs. With Opting In, Amy Richards addresses the anxiety over parenting that women face today in a book that mixes memoir, interviews, historical analysis, and feminist insight. In her refreshingly direct and thoughtful approach, Richards covers everything from the truth about our biological clocks and the trends toward extending fertility to parenting with nature and nurturing in mind to our relationship with our own mothers to what feminism's relationship to motherhood is and always has been Speaking from the vantage point of someone who is both a parent and one of our leading feminist activists Richards cuts through the cacophony of voices intent on telling women the appropriate way to be a mother and reveals instead how to confidently forge your own path while staying true to yourself and your ideals
