Plots Robert L. Belknap, 2016-05-17 Robert L. Belknap's theory of plot illustrates the active and passive roles literature plays in creating its own dynamic reading experience Literary narrative enchants us through its development of plot but plot tells its own story about the making of narrative revealing through its structures preoccupations and strategies of representation critical details about how and when a work came into being Through a rich reading of Shakespeare's King Lear and Dostoevsky's Crime and Punishment Belknap explores the spatial chronological and causal aspects of plot its brilliant manipulation of reader frustration and involvement and its critical cohesion of characters He considers Shakespeare's transformation of dramatic plot through parallelism conflict resolution and recognition He then follows with Dostoevsky's development of the rhetorical and moral devices of nineteenth century Russian fiction along with its epistolary and detective genres to embed the reader in the murder Raskolnikov commits Dostoevsky's reinvention of the psychological plot was profound and Belknap effectively challenges the idea that the author abused causality to achieve his ideological conclusion In a final chapter Belknap argues that plots teach us novelistic rather than poetic justice Operating according to their own logic plots provide us with a compelling way to see and order our world
