

Cannabis

Before, during and after pregnancy

Fast Facts

If you use cannabis and are pregnant or are planning a pregnancy, talk to your healthcare provider.

Using cannabis (marijuana, weed, pot) during pregnancy may increase your baby's risk of developmental problems.

The chemicals in any form of cannabis (smoking, second-hand smoke, vapour, edibles, oils/creams) may be harmful for your baby.

It is not safe to use cannabis in pregnancy or when breastfeeding

Fertility

Studies have shown that daily cannabis use is linked to:

- Changes to the menstrual cycle
- Low sperm count and poor sperm quality

Pregnancy

Cannabis contains over 400 chemicals, including THC - the chemical that makes you feel "high".

- These chemicals can pass from your body to your baby when you are pregnant and may be harmful.

Cannabis smoke contains many of the same harmful chemicals as cigarette smoke.

- Smoking lowers the supply of oxygen and nutrients to your baby.

Ask your healthcare provider about safer ways to treat nausea and vomiting during pregnancy.

Baby

A baby's brain contains a lot of fat. THC is stored in fat and it could largely affect how your baby's brain develops.

Research shows that cannabis in pregnancy may increase the risk of:

- Pre-term birth
- Low birth weight
- Lower IQ scores
- Impulsivity and hyperactivity in childhood
- Learning, memory and problem-solving difficulties in teens and later in life
