The Forest for the Trees Jeff Forester, 2010-01-13 Author Jeff Forester describes how humans have occupied and managed the northern borderlands of Minnesota from tribal burning to pioneer and industrial logging to evolving conceptions of wilderness and restoration forestry On the surface a story of Minnesota's borderlands The Forest for the Trees more broadly explores the nation's history of resource extraction and wilderness preservation casting forward to consider what today's actions may mean for the future of America's forests From early settlers and industrialists seeking the pine forests wealth to modern visitors valuing the tranquility of protected wilderness the region known today as the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness has offered assorted treasures to each generation By focusing on the ecological history of the BWCAW s Winton watershed Forester shows how the global story of logging forestry conservation and resource management unfolded in the northern woods of Minnesota The result is a telling exploration of human attitudes toward wilderness the grasp after a forest s resources the battles between logging and tourist interests and decades of conservation efforts that have left northern Minnesota denuded of white pine and threatened with potentially devastating fire The result of a decade of research The Forest for the Trees chronicles six phases of human interaction with the BWCAW tribal burning the land for cultivation pioneering harvesting lumber on a small scale industrial accelerating the cut and consequently increasing the fire danger conservation reacting to both widespread fires and unsustainable harvest levels wilderness recognizing important values in woodlands beyond timber and finally restoration using prescribed burns and other techniques to return the forest to its natural state Whether promoted or excluded one constant through these phases is fire The Forest for the Trees explores how tribal people burned the land to encourage agriculture how conservationists and others later fought fire in the woods by completely suppressing it and finally how scientific understanding brought the debate full circle as recent controlled burns in the BWCAW seek to lessen significant fuel loads that could produce fires of unprecedented magnitude Run with the Hare, Hunt with the Hound Paul M.
