Rural Water Supply And Sanitation South Asia Rural Development Series:

Springs of Life Ganesh Pangare, Vasudha Pangare, Binayak Das, 2006 This exhaustive account of water in India documents the natural beauty of the country's bodies of water the ways in which communities live and interact with water particularly in turbulent ecosystems the resilience of people living in water stressed regions and common sense solutions to local water problems Detailing the past present and future of India's water resources this unique book combines thorough research with a coffee table style presentation with photographs that document the authors extensive travels across the country Water Resources, Sustainable Livelihoods, and Eco-system Services Indian Society for Ecological Economics. Conference, 2003 Papers In The Volume Address Issues Relating To Water Resources Sustainable Livelihoods And Eco System Sciences In India Emerging Problems Of Urban And Industrial Pollution Analyse Institution Of Water Management And Aquatic Eco System Also Point Out Future Challenges And Directions For Policy Makers Rural Water Supply and Sanitation, 1999 South Asia Rural Development Series Since the inception of the Sixth Five Year Plan 1980-85 and the launch of the International Drinking Water Supply and Sanitation Decade India has substantially increased its commitment to the water supply and sanitation sector Sector investments have increased and presently make up about 3 percent of the national budget Rural Water Supply and Sanitation discusses issues such as protection of water sources institutional performance and sector reform strategy Urban Water Supply and Sanitation Robin Turrell, 1999 India's economic policies are aimed at increasing economic growth improving market efficiency and competitiveness and integrating the Indian economy with global markets Much of the population and industrial growth is expected to occur in urban centers Consequently the demands on the urban water supply and sanitation sector UWSS will be great Urban Water Supply and Sanitation states the UWSS sector needs urgent attention both to meet these new demands and to ensure that all city dwellers have access to basic services at reasonable costs This book outlines the way forward which includes a discussion on institutional reform and financial reform as well as an action plan Democratic Decentralisation through a Natural Resource Lens Jesse C. Ribot, Anne M. Larson, 2013-09-13 This volume queries the state and effect of the global decentralization movement through the study of natural resource decentralizations in Africa Asia and Latin America The case studies presented here use a comparative framework to characterize the degree to which natural resource decentralizations can be said to be taking place and where possible to measure their social and environmental consequences In general the cases show that threats to national level interests are producing resistance that is fettering the struggle for reform Jal Swaraj Meeta, 2009

Challenge of Sustainable Development Ramprasad Sengupta, 2003 The volume is the outcome of a symposium held at the Indian Institute of Management Calcutta IIMC in February 2001 A number of senior scholars participated from all over India Professor Ramprasad Sengupta and Professor Anup K Sinha organized the symposium under the aegis of C-DEP Centre for Development and Environment Policy in IIMC Professor Ramprasad Sengupta has since then been at JNU in New Delhi

Sengupta and Sinha are both professors of economics and are the editors of the proposed volume. The symposium on Population, Life Support, and Human Development was set in the backdrop of the 2001 Census. We had adopted an interdisciplinary approach in addressing questions about population trends and whether we have sufficient land for food, adequate water, and the ability to provide education and health for all, along with the increased need for urban space. In the twenty-first century, education and health are considered as important life support systems, as the ability to access adequate food, clean air, and water. The challenge of human development can be met by focusing on basic and substantive issues of technology as well as social institutions and policies that create the capability, priorities, and the distribution patterns for new and existing resources. This concern lies at the core of this volume that seeks to understand the process of sustainable human development and the environmental and technological problems that constrain such improvements.

Inter-sectoral Water Allocation, Planning, and Management, 1999. Fundamental changes must take place in how water is allocated, planned, and managed if India's goals for continued economic growth and improved social and environmental conditions are to be met. India's needs are especially severe due to its rapidly developing water constraints, environmental problems, huge population, regional inequalities in water availability, along with the federal administrative structure and rapid demographic and economic growth. The findings of Inter Sectoral Water Allocation Planning and Management are that a comprehensive approach is needed in order to implement change. The book provides detailed recommendations in the areas of policy making, legislation, and regulations, institutions, economic incentives, technology, and public information.
