Scottish Architecture:

History of Scottish Architecture Miles Glendinning, 2019-07-30 At last here is a single volume authoritative history of Scottish architecture This compact yet comprehensive account combines factual description of the vast and fertile range of visual forms and key architects in each period with a wide ranging analysis of their social ideological and historical context As Scotland has often been closely involved with new trends in western architecture this book highlights the interaction of Scottish developments with broader European and international movements From the beginnings of the Renaissance in the 15th century right up to the 1990s this much needed survey covers the entire post medieval story in one volume

Architecture of Scotland, 1660-1750 Louisa Humm, 2020-06-18 This architectural survey covers one of Scotland's most important periods of political and architectural change when mainstream European classicism became embedded as the cultural norm Interposed between the decline of the Scottish castle and its revival as Scotch Baronial architecture the contributors consider both private and public civic architecture They showcase the architectural reflections of a Scotland finding its new elites by providing new research analysing paradigms such as Holyrood and Hamilton Palace as well as external reference points such as Paris tenements Roman precedents and English parallels Typologically the book is broad in scope covering the architecture and design of country estate and also the urban scene in the era before Edinburgh New Town Steps decisively away from the Scottish castle genre of architecture Contextualises the work of Scotland's first well documented grouping of major architects including Sir William Bruce Mr James Smith James Gibbs and the Adam dynasty Documents the architectural developments of a transformational period in Scottish history Beautifully illustrated throughout with 300 colour illustrations a

Scottish Architecture Deborah Howard, 1995 This volume considers Scottish architecture in the century following the Reformation It examines how the principal social groups within Scotland responded to the stimulus of Renaissance classicism from the continent whilst retaining a distinctively Scottish style Scotch

Baronial Miles Glendinning, Aonghus MacKechnie, 2019-01-10 As the debate about Scottish independence rages on this book takes a timely look at how Scotland's politics have been expressed in its buildings exploring how the architecture of Scotland in particular the constantly changing ideal of the castle has been of great consequence to the ongoing narrative of Scottish national identity Scotch Baronial provides a politically framed examination of Scotland's kaleidoscopic castle architecture tracing how it was used to serve successive political agendas both prior to and during the three unionist centuries from the early 17th century to the 20th century The book encompasses many of the country's most important historic buildings from the palaces left behind by the lost monarchy to revivalist castles and the proud town halls of the Victorian age examining their architectural styles and tracing their wildly fluctuating political and national connotations It ends by bringing the story into the 21st century exploring how contemporary neo modernist architecture in today's Scotland as exemplified in the Holyrood parliament relates to concepts of national identity in architecture over the previous centuries Scottish

Miles Glendinning, 2004 This extensively illustrated book provides a historical overview of Scottish buildings of government and assembly from the Middle Ages to the present day setting Scotland's new parliament in the broader context of the nation's architectural and social history Scotstyle, 150 Years of Scottish Architecture Fiona Sinclair, 1984-01-01 Art &

Humm Louisa Humm, 2020-06-18 This architectural survey covers one of Scotland's most important periods of political and architectural change when mainstream European classicism became embedded as the cultural norm. Interposed between the decline of the Scottish castle and its revival as Scotch Baronial architecture, the contributors consider both private and public civic architecture. They showcase the architectural reflections of a Scotland finding its new elites by providing new research analysing paradigms such as Holyrood and Hamilton Palace as well as external reference points such as Paris tenements, Roman precedents and English parallels. Typologically, the book is broad in scope, covering the architecture and design of country estate and also the urban scene in the era before Edinburgh New Town. Steps decisively away from the Scottish castle genre of architecture, it contextualises the work of Scotland's first well-documented grouping of major architects, including Sir William Bruce, Mr James Smith, James Gibbs and the Adam dynasty. Documents the architectural developments of a transformational period in Scottish history. Beautifully illustrated throughout with 300 colour illustrations.

Medieval Art, Architecture and Archaeology in the Dioceses of Aberdeen and Moray Jane Geddes, 2016-04-14 Exploring the medieval heritage of Aberdeenshire and Moray, the essays in this volume contain insights and recent work presented at the British Archaeological Association Conference of 2014 based at Aberdeen University. The opening historical chapters establish the political, economic and administrative context of the region, looking at both the secular and religious worlds and include an examination of Elgin Cathedral and the bishops' palaces. The discoveries at the excavations of the kirk of St Nicholas, which have revealed the early origins of religious life in Aberdeen city, are summarized, and subsequent papers consider the role of patronage. Patronage is explored in terms of architecture, the dramas of the Reformation and its aftermath, highlighted through essentially humble parish churches assailed by turbulent events and personalities. The collegiate church at Cullen, particularly its tomb sculpture, provides an unusually detailed view of the spiritual and dynastic needs of its patrons. The decoration of spectacular ceilings, both carved and painted, at St Machar's Cathedral, Provost Skene's House and Crathes Castle, are surveyed through the eyes of their patrons and the viewers below. Saints and religious devotion feature in the last four chapters, focusing on the carved wooden panels from Fetteresso, which display both piety and a rare glimpse of Scottish medieval carnal humour, the illuminated manuscripts from Arbuthnott, the Aberdeen Breviary and Historia Gentis Scotorum. The medieval artistic culture of north-east Scotland is both battered by time and relatively little known. With discerning interpretation, this volume shows that much high-quality material still survives, while the lavish illustrations restore some glamour to this lost medieval world.

Building a Nation Ranald MacInnes, Miles Glendinning, 1999 A history of Scottish architecture from the Royal palaces of the Stuart kings to the recent flowering of creativity after the austerity of the post-war years. Scotland from the Twelfth to the Eighteenth Century David MacGibbon, Thomas Ross, 1887 The Hero Building Professor Johnny Rodger, 2015-07-28 Why was it that across Scotland over the last two and a half centuries architectural monuments were raised to national heroes Were hero buildings commissioned as manifestations of certain social beliefs or as a built environmental form of social advocacy And if so then how and why were social aims and intentions translated into architectural form and how effective were they A tradition of building architectural monuments to commemorate national heroes developed as a distinctive feature of the Scottish built environment As concrete manifestations of powerful social and political currents of thought and opinion these hero buildings make important statements about identity the nation and social history The book examines this architectural culture by studying a prominent selection of buildings such as the Burns monuments in Alloway Edinburgh and Kilmarnock the Edinburgh Scott Monument the Glenfinnan Monument and the Wallace Monument in Stirling They give testimony to how a variety of architectural forms and styles can be adapted through time to bear particular social messages of symbolic weight This tradition which literally allows us to dwell on important social issues of the past has been somewhat neglected in serious architectural history and heritage and indeed one of the main monuments has already been destroyed By raising awareness of this rich architectural and social heritage while analysing and interpreting the buildings in their historical context this book makes an exciting and original scholarly contribution to the current debates on identity and nationality taking place in Scotland and the wider UK Scotstyle, 2016 The Scottish Web Directory Clive Zietman, 2003 The definitive guide to Scottish websites Scotland's New Homebuyer This comprehensive and easy to use directory provides a one stop guide to essential addresses on the Internet from a Scottish perspective The Scottish Web Directory offers a selection of over 10 000 official sites top household names and sites of interest to Scottish families business users and anyone interested in Scotland Conveniently classified by category the directory enables both beginners and experienced users alike to find elusive web addresses with ease saving hours of fruitless searching and surfing on the Internet Categories include Arts Entertainment Business Children Education Training Research Food Drink Government Hobbies Leisure Living Museums Libraries Information Personal Finance Shopping Sport Technology Travel

The Scottish Chateau Charles McKean, 2001 McKean discusses the influence of the period upon designers like Charles Rennie Mackintosh and others The Architecture of the Scottish Medieval Church, 1100-1560 Richard Fawcett, 2011 Published for the Paul Mellon Centre for Studies in British Art Materials and Meaning in Architecture Nathaniel Coleman, 2020-02-20 Interweaving architecture philosophy and cultural history Materials and Meaning in Architecture develops a rich and multi dimensional exploration of materials and materiality in an age when architectural practice seems otherwise preoccupied with image and visual representation Arguing that architecture is primarily experienced by the whole body rather than chiefly with the eyes this broad ranging study shows how the most engaging built works are as tactile as they are sensuous communicating directly with the bodily senses especially touch It explores the theme of material imagination and the power of establishing place identity in an architect's work to consider the enduring expressive possibilities of material use in architecture. The book's chapters can be dipped into each individual chapter providing close readings of built works by selected modern masters: Scarpa, Zumthor, Williams and Tsien; insights into key texts and theories: Ruskin, Loos, Bachelard; or short cultural histories of materials: wood, brick, concrete, steel and glass. And yet taken together the chapters build to a powerful book-length argument about how meaning accrues to materials through time and about the need to reinsert the bodily experience of materiality into architectural design. It is thus also in part a manifesto arguing for architecture to act as a bulwark against the tide of an increasingly depersonalised built environment. With insights for a wide range of readers ranging from students through to researchers and professional designers, Materials and Meaning in Architecture will cause theorists to rethink their assumptions and designers to see new potential for their projects.
