Writing the Character-Centered Screenplay, Updated and Expanded edition Andrew Horton, 2000-02-23 We need good screenwriters who understand character. Everywhere Andrew Horton traveled in researching this book, from Hollywood to Hungary, he heard the same refrain. Yet most of the standard how-to books on screenwriting follow the film industry's earlier lead in focusing almost exclusively on plot and formulaic structures. With this book, Horton, a film scholar and successful screenwriter, provides the definitive work on the character-based screenplay. Exceptionally wide-ranging, covering American, international, mainstream, and off-Hollywood films, as well as television, the book offers creative strategies and essential practical information. Horton begins by placing screenwriting in the context of the storytelling tradition, arguing through literary and cultural analysis that all great stories revolve around a strong central character. He then suggests specific techniques and concepts to help any writer, whether new or experienced, build more vivid characters and screenplays. Centering his discussion around four film examples, including Thelma & Louise and The Silence of the Lambs, and the television series Northern Exposure, he takes the reader step by step through the screenwriting process, starting with the development of multi-dimensional characters and continuing through to rewrite. Finally, he includes a wealth of information about contests, fellowships, and film festivals. Espousing a new character-based approach to screenwriting, this engaging, insightful work will prove an essential guide to all of those involved in the writing and development of film scripts.

Screenwriting With a Conscience Marilyn Beker, 2003-09-12 Screenwriting With a Conscience: Ethics for Screenwriters is for screenwriters who care deeply about what they write, who are aware that movie images matter and can influence audiences, and who want to create meaningful screenplays that make powerful statements while entertaining and winning over audiences. A user-friendly guide to ethical screenwriting, this book makes the case that social responsibility is endemic to public art while it emphatically champions First Amendment rights and condemns censorship. In this dynamic and practical volume, author Marilyn Beker provides methods for self-assessment of values, ideas, and ethical stances and demonstrates the application of these values to the development of plot, character, and dialogue. Screenwriters are introduced to ethical decision-making models and shown, through specific film examples, how they can be utilized in plot and character development. In addition, specific techniques and exercises are supplied to help screenwriters determine the difference between good and evil, to write realistic and compelling characters based on this determination, and to present messages and write dialogue powerfully without preaching. This book also puts forth a livable work philosophy for
