Calhoon,2021-06-25 The Long Century's Long Shadow approaches German Romanticism and Weimar cinema as continuous developments enlisting both in a narrative of reciprocal illumination The author investigates different moments and media as connected phenomena situated at alternate ends of the long nineteenth century but joined by their mutual rejection of the neo-classical aesthetic standard of placid and weightless poise in numerous media including film painting sculpture prose poetry and dance Connecting Weimar filmmaking to Romantic thought and practice Kenneth S Calhoon offers a non technological aesthetic genealogy of cinema He focuses on well known literary and artistic works including films such as Nosferatu Metropolis Frankenstein and Fantasia the writings of Conrad Kafka Goethe and Novalis and the paintings of Caspar David Friedrich one of the leading artists of German Romanticism With an eye to the modernism of which Weimar filmmaking was a part The Long Century's Long Shadow employs the Romantic landscape in poetry and painting as a mirror in which to regard cinema Casting a Long Shadow R. Lighting and shadows are used within a range of art forms to create aesthetic effects. Piotr Sadowski's study of light and shadow in Weimar cinema and contemporaneous visual arts is underpinned by the evolutionary semiotic theories of indexicality and iconicity. These theories explain the unique communicative and emotive power of light and shadow when used in contemporary indexical media including the shadow theatre, silhouette portraits, camera obscura photography and film. In particular, Sadowski highlights the aesthetic and emotional significance of shadows. The cast shadow as an indexical sign maintains a physical connection with its near present referent such as a hidden person stimulating a viewer's imagination and provoking responses including anxiety or curiosity. The cinematic shadow plays a stylistic role by enhancing image texture, depth of field and tonal contrast of cinematic moments. Such enhancements are especially important in monochromatic films and Sadowski interweaves the book with accounts of seminal Weimar cinema moments. Sadowski's book is distinctive for combining historical materials and theoretical approaches to develop a deeper understanding of Weimar cinema and other contemporary art forms. The Semiotics of Light and Shadows is an ideal resource for both scholars and students working in linguistics, semiotics, film, media and visual arts.
