Kollef,Emilio Díaz,Alejandro Rodríguez,2010-05-28 Infections and their complications are a very important clinical area in the intensive care unit setting Community acquired infections and nosocomial infections both contribute to the high level of disease acquisition common among critically ill patients The accurate diagnosis of nosocomial infections and the provision of appropriate therapies including antimicrobial therapy effective against the identified agents of infection have been shown to be important determinants of patient outcome

Critical care practitioners are in a unique position in dealing with infectious diseases. They are often the initial providers of care to seriously ill patients with infections. Additionally, they have a responsibility to ensure that nosocomial infections are prevented and that antimicrobial resistance is minimized by prudently employing antibiotic agents. It is the editors' hope that this book will provide clinicians practicing in the intensive care unit with a reference to help guide their care of infected patients. To that end, they have brought together a group of international authors to address important topics related to infectious diseases for the critical care practitioner.
