Rural Industrialisation Challenges Per

J. James

Rural Industrialisation Challenges Per:

Rural Industrialisation T. M. Dak, 1989 Viewed mainly as the growth of manufacturing sector as opposed to agriculture and the increased use of inanimate sources of power in the production of goods and services rural industrialization offers the greatest scope for absorbing the existing and growing labour force outside the field of agriculture However rural industrial scene continues to be characterised by the concentration of labour force in agriculture predominance of traditional crafts low levels of technology hereditary mode of production poor productivity and returns and low labour efficiency and utilisation Besides glorification of traditional crafts and self employment caste industry nexus and above all policy bias in favour of agriculture as against industry and large and medium capital intensive industries as against small village and cottage industries also worked as strong impediments to the development of rural crafts Drawing from the nationwide experiences this book examines the problems of the growth and modernisation of rural industries from socio economic perspectives and probes into the organisational and technology system underlying their production structure with all its implications and ramifications The reversal of the policy favouring large modern industry sector and the spread of tiny small industries throughout the country with full package of organisational technical financial and marketing support in adequate measure have been strongly advocated In addition the integration of the development of rural industries with the overall programme of industrialisation was emphasized

Management Research in a Changing Climate Dr. Mu. Subrahmanian, R. Banureka & S. Chandrasekaran, 2014

Industrial Policy and the Transformation of the Colonial Economy in Africa Horman Chitonge, 2021-02-15 Industrial Policy and the Transformation of the Colonial Economy in Africa offers an in depth analysis of the role industrial policy can play in the transformation of African economies Using examples from Zambia's industrial development experience this book illustrates that core features of the colonial economy have not just survived six decades of independence in most African countries but they have continued to shape the nature scope and pace of economic activities on the continent The book argues that since the colonial economy in Africa was not intended to serve the interests of Africans it is imperative that the structures and the underlying rationale of the colonial economy are radically reoriented if economic activities in Africa are to benefit the majority of Africans Drawing from the Zambian experience the book shows that the transformation of the colonial economy in Africa is urgently needed Whilst this has proved to be difficult over the past six decades it can be done The book outlines a specific type of industrial policy Frontier Industrial Policy as a key instrument for transforming the structure of African economies At a time when economic growth across Africa is under considerable pressure due to COVID 19 the insights in this book will be of interest to researchers across Economics Development Postcolonial Studies and African Studies

Geography and Environment, 1986 China's Agricultural Development Xiao-yuan Dong, 2017-03-02 This book identifies the main challenges Chinese agriculture is confronting and considers how these challenges might be met The performance of China's agricultural production is comprehensively assessed while the

The State, Technology and Industrialization in Africa J. James, 1995-04-12 Industrialization in Africa has relied heavily on state institutions of various kinds and on the inflow of foreign capital especially foreign aid With particular reference to technology and on the basis of a wide range of case studies this book explains how these features of the African experience have jointly contributed not only to the many cases of failure in the public sector but also to a number of exceptional cases that can be regarded as success stories

Challenging the Orthodoxies Richard M. Auty, John Toye, 2016-07-27 This book provides an up to date interdisciplinary critique of the new economic orthodoxy as represented by the Washington Consensus The originator of the term John Williamson updates his original thesis which is then discussed by an interdisciplinary group of scholars that includes economists environmentalists political scientists institutionalists sociologists and a philosopher The papers span a range of viewpoints which includes sympathetic modifications to the consensus as well as strong rejections of it

Challenging the Legal Boundaries of Work Regulation Judy Fudge, Shae McCrystal, Kamala Sankaran, 2012-07-11 Focusing on paid work that blurs traditional legal boundaries and the challenge this poses to traditional forms of labour regulation this collection of original case studies illustrates the wide range of different forms of regulation designed to provide decent work The original case studies cover a diversity of workers from across developed and developing countries the formal and informal economies and public and private work spaces Each deals with the failings of traditional labour law and several explore the capacity of different forms of regulatory techniques such as commercial law corporate codes of conduct or supply chain regulation to protect workers
