Scotland Photographs:

Photography of Victorian Scotland Roddy Simpson, 2012-09-06 This is the first book to provide a full and coherent introduction to the photography of Victorian Scotland. There are many books which deal with particular elements and individual photographers which show the interest in the subject but no book draws everything together to provide an understanding of the multi-faceted nature of photography and the inter-relationship with other activities in the society of the time. This authoritative introduction building upon these other publications will provide a wide-ranging appreciation of early Scottish photography and in particular that Scottish photography was in the vanguard of many international trends. The material has been structured and the topics organised with appropriate illustrations as both a readable narrative and a foundation text for the subject.

Nineteenth-Century Photographs and Architecture Micheline Nilsen, 2017-07-05 Eschewing the limiting idea that nineteenth-century architecture photography merely reflects functionality, the objective of this collection is to reflect the aesthetic, intellectual and cultural concerns of the time. The essays hold appeal for social and cultural historians as well as those with an interest in the fields of art history, urban geography, history of travel and tourism. Nineteenth-century photographers captured what could be seen and what they wanted to be seen. Their images informed of exploration, progress, heritage and destruction. Architecture was a staple subject for the first generation of photographers as it patiently tolerated the long exposures of the early processes. During its formative decades, photography responded to evolutionary cultural forces of market and artistic production. Photographs of architecture reflected a specific political or social context modulated through individual points of view. For this reason, the examination of each photographic image as a primary visual document and an aesthetic object rather than a technical milestone on a chronological trajectory affords a richer, multi-faceted approach to the extensive and complex corpus of photographs taken by photographers all over the world. This project acknowledges the importance of technique in the early decades of photography but focuses on the thematic content of the material. It places the photography of architecture in an international context under the contemporary critical lens sharpened by theoretical and cultural examinations of the topic.

Uncertain Images: Museums and the Work of Photographs Elizabeth Edwards, Sigrid Lien, 2016-02-17 Almost all museums hold photographs in their collections and museum professionals and their audiences engage with photographs in a myriad of ways. Yet despite some three decades of critical museology and photographic theory and an extensive debate on the politics of representation outside art museums, almost no critical attention has been given specifically to the roles, purposes and lives of these photographs within museums. This book brings into focus the ubiquitous yet entirely unconsidered work that photographs are put to in museums. The authors' argument is that there is an economy of photographs in museums which is integral to the processes of the museum and integral to the understanding of museums. The international contributors drawn from curators and academics reflect a range of visual and museological expertise. After an introduction setting out the range of questions and problems, the first part addresses broad curatorial strategies and ways of thinking about photographs in museums Shifting the emphasis from curatorial practices and anxieties to the space of the gallery this is followed by a series of case studies of exhibitionary practices and the museum strategies that support them The third section focuses on the role of photographs in the museum articulation of difficult histories A final section addresses photograph collections in a digital environment New technologies and new media have transformed the management address and purposing in photographs in museums from cataloguing practices to streaming on social media These growing practices challenge both traditional hierarchies of knowledge in museums and the location of authority about photographs The volume emerges from PhotoCLEC a HERA funded project on museums and the photographic legacy of the colonial past in a postcolonial and multicultural Europe

Encyclopedia of Nineteenth-Century Photography John Hannavy, 2013-12-16 The Encyclopedia of Nineteenth Century Photography is the first comprehensive encyclopedia of world photography up to the beginning of the twentieth century It sets out to be the standard definitive reference work on the subject for years to come Its coverage is global an important first in that authorities from all over the world have contributed their expertise and scholarship towards making this a truly comprehensive publication The Encyclopedia presents new and ground breaking research alongside accounts of the major established figures in the nineteenth century arena Coverage includes all the key people processes equipment movements styles debates and groupings which helped photography develop from being a solution in search of a problem when first invented to the essential communication tool creative medium and recorder of everyday life which it had become by the dawn of the twentieth century The sheer breadth of coverage in the 1200 essays makes the Encyclopedia of Nineteenth Century Photography an essential reference source for academics students researchers and libraries worldwide

Pollen,2020-09-09 With increasingly accessible camera technology crowdsourced public media projects abound like never before Such projects often seek to secure a snapshot of a single day in order to establish communities and create visual time capsules for the future Mass Photography Collective Histories of Everyday Life assesses the potential of these popular moment in time projects by examining their current day prevalence and their historical predecessors Through archival research and interviews with organisers and participants it examines for the first time the vast photographic collections resulting from such projects analysing their structures and systems their aims and objectives and their claims and promises The central case study is the 55 000 photographs submitted to One Day for Life in 1987 which aimed in its own time to be the biggest photographic event the world had ever seen Victorian Photography and Literary Nostalgia Helen Groth,2003 This study looks back to the early days of photography when writers publishers and photographers were only beginning to consider the impact of this new way of seeing on their work and lives Helen Groth demonstrates that rather than being extraneous to the ongoing concerns of writing Victorian literary history the early history of photography constitutes a rich part of the cultural history of the mediation and reception of literary texts in the nineteenth century Cosmo Innes and the Defence of Scotland's Past c. 1825-1875 Richard A. Marsden,2016-05-13 Today Scotland's history is frequently associated with the clarion call of political nationalism However in the nineteenth century the influence of history on Scottish national identity was far more ambiguous How then did ideas about the past shape Scottish identity in a period when union with England was all but unquestioned The activities of the antiquary Cosmo Innes 1798 1874 help us to address this question Innes was a prolific editor of medieval and early modern documents relating to Scotland's parliament legal system burghs universities aristocratic families and pre Reformation church Yet unlike scholars today he saw that editorial role in interventionist terms His source editions were artificial constructs that powerfully articulated his worldview and agendas emphasising Enlightenment inspired narratives of social progress and institutional development At the same time they used manuscript facsimiles and images of medieval architecture to foreground a romantic concern for the texture of past lives Innes operated within an elite associational culture which gave him access to the leading intellectuals and politicians of the day His representations of Scottish history therefore had significant influence and were put to work as commentaries on some of the major debates which exorcised Scotland's intelligentsia across the middle decades of the century This analysis of Innes's work with sources set within the intellectual context of the time and against the antiquarian activities of his contemporaries provides a window onto the ways in which the national past was perceived in Scotland during the nineteenth century This allows us to explore how historical thinkers negotiated the apparent dichotomies between Enlightenment and Romanticism whilst at the same time enabling a re examination of prevailing assumptions about Scotland's supposed failure to maintain a viable national consciousness in the later 1800s Library of Congress Catalog: Motion Pictures and Filmstrips Library of Congress,1968 Plants in north-east Highlands Adam Watson,2014 Timing of blueberry growth
