from the earliest times to 1600 People and Woods in Scotland T. C. Smout, 2019-08-07 No detailed description available for People and Woods in Scotland Agriculture, Economy and Society in Early Modern Scotland Robert Allan Houston, 2024 Showcases the latest research on Scotland's rural economy and society Early modern Scotland was predominantly rural Agriculture was the main occupation of most people at the time so what happened in the countryside was crucial economically socially and culturally The essays collected here focus on the years between around 1500 and 1750 This period although before the main era of agricultural improvement in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries was nevertheless far from static in terms of agrarian development Specific topics addressed include everyday farming practices investment landlords tenants and estate management and the cultural context within which agriculture was imagined The disastrous famine of 1622-23 is analysed in detail The volume is completed by a comprehensive survey of recent historiography setting agricultural history in its broader context The Oxford Handbook of Modern Scottish History T. M. Devine, Jenny Wormald, 2012-01-26 A landmark study which reconsiders in fresh and illuminating ways the classic themes of the nation's history since the sixteenth century as well as a number of new topics which are only now receiving detailed attention Places the Scottish experience firmly in an international historical experience Modern Scottish History: 1707 to the Present Anthony Cooke, Ian Donnachie, Ann MacSween, Christopher A. Whatley, 2008-01-30 This is the first volume of a distance learning history of Scotland course The 26 major topics are covered in five books designed for self study and written to accompany the course These volumes are two tutorial volumes two volumes of reprinted articles and essays and a volume of documents The first half of the course covers the period 1707 to 1850 Beginning with the Union of 1707 and Jacobitism the course considers topics including industrialization politics religion the environment class demography and culture as well as looking at the differences between Highland and Lowland society and economy The project team for this part of the course includes C G Brown G Carruthers A J Cooke I Donnachie W H Fraser M T G Fry B Harris A I MacInnes I Maver T C Smout N L Tranter C A Whatley I D Whyte and D J Withrington The period 1850 to the present is covered in the second half of the course Again a wide range of topics is studied and some topics such as industrialization demography urbanization religion class education culture and Highland and Lowland society is continued The project team for this second part of the course includes R D Anderson R Anthony C G Brown E A Cameron R J Finlay J O Foster C Harvie W Kenefick R A Lambert I Levitt A J MacIvor R J Morris and P L Payne Shades of Green Ruth Tittensor, 2016-10-31 This book takes a fresh look at the most disliked tree in Britain and Ireland explaining the reasons it was introduced and why it became ubiquitous in the archipelagos of northwest Europe Sitka spruce has contributed to the Pacific Coast landscapes of North America for over ten millennia For the Tlingit First Nation it is the most important tree in terms of spiritual relationships art and products in daily use such as canoes containers fish traps and sweet cakes Since the late nineteenth century it has also been the most important tree to the timber industry of west coast North America The historical background to the modern

use of Sitka spruce is explored The lack of cultural reference may explain negative public response when treeless uplands in the UK and Ireland were afforested with introduced conifer species particularly Sitka spruce following two World Wars The multipurpose forestry of today recognizes that Sitka spruce is the most important tree to the timber industry and to a public which uses its many products but fails to recognize the link between growing trees and bought goods The apparently featureless and wildlife less Sitka spruce plantations in UK uplands are gradually developing recognizable ecological features Sitka spruce has the potential to form temperate rain forests this century as well as to produce much needed goods for society The major contribution of Sitka spruce to landscapes and livelihoods in western North America is by contrast widely accepted But conserving natural old growth forests sustaining the needs of First Nations and producing materials for the modern timber industry will be an intricate task

Nature Contested T. C. Smout, 2019-08-07 This work deals with four centuries of conflict over some of the most valued landscapes in Europe Based on a series of lectures given by the author at Oxford University in 1999 it combines social and cultural history with ecology and geography

An Environmental History of the Middle Ages John Aberth, 2013 The Middle Ages was a critical and formative time for Western approaches to our natural surroundings eeAn Environmental History of the Middle Ages is a unique and unprecedented cultural survey of attitudes towards the environment during this period Humankind e tm s relationship with the environment shifted gradually over time from a predominantly adversarial approach to something more overtly collaborative until a series of ecological crises in the late Middle Ages With the advent of shattering events such as the Great Famine and the Black Death considered efflorescences of the climate downturn known as the Little Ice Age that is comparable to our present global warming predicament medieval people began to think of and relate to their natural environment in new and more nuanced ways They now were made to be acutely aware of the consequences of human impacts upon the environment anticipating the cyclical new ecology approach of the modern world Exploring the entire medieval period from 500 to 1500 and ranging across the whole of Europe from England and Spain to the Baltic and Eastern Europe John Aberth focuses his study on three key areas the natural elements of air water and earth the forest and wild and domestic animals Through this multi faceted lens An Environmental History of the Middle Ages sheds fascinating new light on the medieval environmental mindset It will be essential reading for students scholars and all those interested in the Middle Ages

Trees, Forested Landscapes and Grazing Animals Ian D. Rotherham, 2013 In this comprehensive book the critical components of the European landscape forest parkland and other grazed landscapes with trees are addressed The book considers the history of grazed treed landscapes of large grazing herbivores in Europe and the implications of the past in shaping our environment today and in the future Debates on the types of anciently grazed landscapes in Europe and what they tell us about past and present ecology have been especially topical and controversial recently This treatment brings the current discussions and the latest research to a much wider audience The book breaks new ground in broadening the scope of wood pasture and woodland research to address sites and ecologies that have previously been overlooked but which hold potential keys to understanding landscape dynamics Eminent contributors including Oliver Rackham and Frans Vera present a text which addresses the importance of history in understanding the past landscape and the relevance of historical ecology and landscape studies in providing a future vision

Landscape and History since 1500 Ian D.

Whyte, 2004-03-03 Landscape and History explores a complex relationship over the past five centuries The book is international and interdisciplinary in scope drawing on material from social economic and cultural history as well as from geography archaeology cultural geography planning and landscape history In recent years as the author points out there has been increasing interest in and concern for many aspects of landscape within British European and wider contexts This has included the study of the history development and changes in our perception of landscape as well as research into the links between past landscapes and political ideologies economic and social structures cartography art and literature There is also considerable concern at present with the need to evaluate and classify historic landscapes and to develop policies for their conservation and management in relation to their scenic heritage and recreational value This is manifest not only in the designation of particularly valued areas with enhanced protection from planning developments such as national parks and world heritage sites but in the countryside more generally Further Ian D Whyte argues changes in European Union policies relating to agriculture with a greater concern for the protection and sustainable management of rural landscapes are likely to be of major importance in relation to the themes of continuity and change in the landscapes of Britain and Europe
