Scotts Last Biscuit:

Scott's Last Biscuit Sarah Moss, 2006 Thematically arranged Scott's Last Biscuit considers the morbid fascination of expeditions that go horribly wrong and the even greater interest attached to those that are rescued at the last minute paying particular attention to the impulse to find and even exhume long lost travellers Looking at risks ranging from frostbite and polar bears to starvation cannibalism and insanity it also analyses the enduring appeal of romanticized polar landscapes the relationship between nationhood and exploration and literary approaches to polar travel from Winnie the Pooh to Frankenstein Sarah Moss considers the representation of indigenous communities as well as women's writing about the far north She discusses Jenny Darlington's unjustly neglected American 1950s autobiography My Antarctic Honeymoon for protection against the polar winds I applied lipstick Letitia Hargraves moving and likeable journal of life as the wife of a Hudson's Bay Company factor in the early nineteenth century and Isobel Hutchinson's solitary travels around Greenland in the 1930s as a botanist for Kew Gardens BOOK JACKET

Brand Antarctica Hanne Elliot Fønss Nielsen, 2023-12 Antarctica is and has always been very much for sale Whales seals and ice have all been marketed as valuable commodities but so have the stories of explorers The modern media industry developed in parallel with land based Antarctic exploration and early expedition leaders needed publicity to generate support for their endeavors Their lectures narratives photographs and films were essentially advertisements for their adventures At the same time popular media began to use the newly encountered continent to draw attention to commercial products These advertisements both trace the commercialization of Antarctica and reveal how commercial settings have shaped the dominant imaginaries of the place By contextualizing and analyzing Antarctic advertisements from the late nineteenth century to the present Brand Antarctica identifies five key framings of the South Polar continent a place for heroes a place of extremity a place of purity a place to protect and a place that transforms Demonstrating how these conceptual framings of Antarctica in turn circulate through our culture Hanne Elliot Fønss Nielsen challenges common assumptions about Antarctica's past and present encouraging readers to rethink their own relationship with the Far South Scott's Last Expedition Robert Falcon Scott, 1923 Scott's Last Expedition

Robert Falcon Scott, 1913 Scott's Last Expedition: Being the reports of the journeys and the scientific work undertaken by Dr. E.A. Wilson and the surviving members of the expedition Robert Falcon Scott, 1913 Second Sight in the Nineteenth Century Elsa Richardson, 2017-06-02 This book explores the phenomenon of second sight in nineteenth century literature and culture Second sight is a form of prophetic vision associated with the folklore of the Scottish Highlands and Islands Described in Gaelic as the An da shealladh or the two sights those in possession of this extraordinary power are said to foresee future events like the death of neighbour the arrival of strangers into the community the success or failure of a fishing trip From the late seventeenth century onwards rumours of this strange faculty attracted the attention of numerous scientists travel writers antiquarians poets and artists Focusing on the nineteenth century this book examines second sight in relation to mesmerism and phrenology modern spiritualism and anthropology romance literature and folklorism and finally psychical research and Celtic mysticism Tracing the migration of a supposedly Scottish tradition through various sites of nineteenth century popular culture it explores questions of nationhood and identity alongside those posed by supernatural phenomena

Science, Fiction, and the Fin-de-Siècle Periodical Press Will Tattersdill, 2016-03-29 Explores the first appearance of science fiction in the pages of late nineteenth century general interest periodicals

Critical Norths Sarah Jaquette Ray, Kevin Maier, 2017-05-15 For millennia the North has held a powerful sway in Western culture Long seen through contradictions empty of life yet full of promise populated by indigenous communities yet ripe for conquest pristine yet marked by a long human history it has moved to the foreground of contemporary life as the most dramatic stage for the reality of climate change This book brings together scholars from a range of disciplines to ask key questions about the North and how we've conceived it and how conceiving of it in those terms has caused us to fail the region's human and nonhuman life Engaging questions of space place indigeneity identity nature the environment justice narrative history and more it offers a crucial starting point for an essential rethinking of both the idea and the reality of the North

Contesting Earth's History in Transatlantic Literary Culture, 1860-1935 Richard Fallon, 2025-02-14 By the mid nineteenth century geologists and palaeontologists had reconstructed an authoritative narrative of Earth's deep history from the planet's molten origins to the rise of humanity Many figures in transatlantic science across subsequent decades however had problems with this narrative it was too secular inhuman and evolutionary or controlled too exclusively by elite scientists Speaking from palaeoscience's unevenly professionalized and controversy racked borders Christian fundamentalists charismatic psychics and respected scholars alike voiced their objections Until now no study has brought their work together for detailed comparative analysis Spanning from the 1860s to the interwar decades Contesting Earth's History examines the fascinating stories of five significant examples of fringe or borderline palaeoscience old and young earth creationism hollow earth theory clairvoyant time travel and sunken continent catastrophism Innovatively combining methods from literary studies with the history of science this book attends not just to the conceptual content of these strange sciences but also to their proponents communication of truth claims through diverse genres ranging from the scientific textbook and the technical monograph to the lost world romance and the epic poem By paying close attention to the hitherto overlooked textual forms and literary strategies of these works of pseudoscience this volume throws into relief the variant conceptions of audience evidence and method that jostled and competed in wider scientific culture during this period It also demonstrates that for all their diversity authors of borderline palaeoscience shared the desire to shift the balance of power creating textual spaces where exclusive hierarchies of scientific expertise could be levelled away These conjurors of lost worlds often captivated wide audiences and many of their bizarre astonishing and iconoclastic ideas remain with us to this day Some even inspired early science fiction by the likes of H P Lovecraft and Edgar Rice Burroughs Hijacking geologists and palaeontologists longstanding effort at making the prehistoric past visible authors on the borderlines of palaeoscience asserted their right to scientific authority and encouraged readers to gaze into time's abyss with bold new eyes

Landscape and Nature in Scandinavian Art

MaryClaire Pappas, Tonje Haugland Sørensen, 2025-04-16 This edited volume foregrounds new and vital scholarship shaping Scandinavian art historical research on the representations of the natural world Contributors deconstruct the interlinking of people and land through critical readings of the Scandinavian representation of nature bringing to the fore how the traditional focus on the landscape as a manifestation of temperament has tended to obfuscate critical approaches to the representation of the landscape Making interdisciplinary connections this volume redresses the imbalance in scholarship on the region that often emphasizes teleological national narratives and instead situates encounters with nature and the landscape in relationship to more interdisciplinary perspectives Each chapter serves as a specific case study on topics ranging from circumpolar exploration and colonial practices deconstructing National Romanticism myths and contemporary artistic responses to the history of the politics of land The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history visual culture nature studies and environmental history

Loss and Cultural Remains in Performance Heather

Davis-Fisch, 2012-09-03 In 1845 John Franklin's Northwest Passage expedition disappeared The expedition left an archive of performative remains that entice one to consider the tension between material remains and memory and reflect on how substitution and surrogation work alongside mourning and melancholia as responses to loss

Antarctica in Fiction

Elizabeth Leane, 2012-06-29 This comprehensive analysis of literary responses to Antarctica examines the rich body of literature that the continent has provoked over the last three centuries focussing particularly on narrative fiction Novelists as diverse as Edgar Allan Poe James Fenimore Cooper Jules Verne H P Lovecraft Ursula Le Guin Beryl Bainbridge and Kim Stanley Robinson have all been drawn artistically to the far south The continent has also inspired genre fiction including a Mills and Boon novel a Phantom comic and a Biggles book as well as countless lost race romances espionage thrillers and horror fantasies Antarctica in Fiction draws on these sources as well as film travel narratives and explorers' own creative writing It maps the far south as a space of the imagination and argues that only by engaging with this space in addition to the physical continent can we understand current attitudes towards Antarctica

The Routledge Handbook of the Polar Regions

Mark Nuttall, Torben R Christensen, Martin Siegert, 2018-07-18 The Routledge Handbook of the Polar Regions is an authoritative guide to the Arctic and the Antarctic through an exploration of key areas of research in the physical and natural sciences and the social sciences and humanities It presents 38 new and original contributions from leading figures and voices in polar research policy and practice as well as work from emerging scholars This handbook aims to approach and understand the Polar Regions as places that are at the forefront of global conversations about some of the most pressing contemporary issues and research questions of our age The volume provides a discussion of the similarities and differences between the two regions to help deepen understanding and knowledge Major themes and issues are integrated in the comprehensive introduction chapter by the editors who are top researchers in their respective fields The contributions show how polar researchers engage with contemporary debates and use interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary approaches to address new developments as well as map out exciting trajectories for future work in the Arctic and the Antarctic The handbook provides an easy access to key items of scholarly literature and material otherwise inaccessible or scattered throughout a variety of specialist journals and books A unique one stop research resource for researchers and policymakers with an interest in the Arctic and Antarctic it is also a comprehensive reference work for graduate and advanced undergraduate students

Visual Culture and Arctic Voyages Eavan O'Dochartaigh, 2022-03-10 In the mid nineteenth century thirty six expeditions set out for the Northwest Passage in search of Sir John Franklin's missing expedition The array of visual and textual material produced on these voyages was to have a profound impact on the idea of the Arctic in the Victorian imaginary Eavan O'Dochartaigh closely examines neglected archival sources to show how pictures created in the Arctic fed into a metropolitan view transmitted through engravings lithographs and panoramas Although the metropolitan Arctic revolved around a fulcrum of heroism terror and the sublime the visual culture of the ship reveals a more complicated narrative that included cross dressing theatricals dressmaking and dances with local communities O'Dochartaigh's investigation into the nature of the on board visual culture of the nineteenth century Arctic presents a compelling challenge to the man versus nature trope that still reverberates in polar imaginaries today This title is also available as Open Access on Cambridge Core

The Dream of the North Peter Fjagesund, 2014-05-10 Northern Europe and North America have dominated the world stage for more than two centuries Using a wide range of sources this book provides the first coherent account from a multi national perspective of the ideas and perceptions that from the Renaissance onwards fuelled the North's rise to prominence and enabled it to rival the traditional cultural and political hegemony of the South This includes not only the fascinating conquest of the polar regions but also the religious upheaval of the Reformation the changing view of nature engendered by Romanticism and not least the revival of ancient Nordic and Celtic culture Finally the book offers an indispensable historical background to current events in the Far North where the past and the future meet in a complex web of dramatic environmental concerns the exploitation of natural resources and the strategies of politics and commerce

Fictions of the Sea Bernhard Klein, 2017-03-02 This timely collection brings together twelve original essays on the cultural meaning of the sea in British literature and history from early modern times to the present. Interdisciplinary in conception, it charts metaphorical and material links between the idea of the sea in the cultural imagination and its significance for the social and political history of Britain, offering a fresh analysis of the impact of the ocean on the formation of British cultural identities. Among the cultural and literary artifacts considered are early modern legal treatises on marine boundaries, Renaissance and Romantic poetry, 19th and 20th century novels, popular sea songs, recent Hollywood films, as well as a diverse range of historical and critical writings. Writers discussed include Shakespeare, Milton, Coleridge, Scott, Conrad, du Maurier, Unsworth, O'Brien, and others. All these cultural and literary fictions of the sea are set in relation to wider issues relevant to maritime history and the historical experience of seafaring: problems of navigation and orientation, piracy, empire, colonialism, slavery, multi-ethnic shipboard communities, masculinity, gender relations. By combining the interests of three related but distinct areas of study, the analysis of sea fiction, critical maritime history, and cultural studies, in a focus upon the historical meaning of the sea in relation to its textual and cultural representation, Fictions of the Sea offers an original contribution to the practice of existing disciplines.

Imagining the Arctic Huw Lewis-Jones, 2017-03-13 Imagining the Arctic explores the culture and politics of polar exploration and the making of its heroes. Leading explorers, the celebrity figures of their day, went to great lengths to convince their contemporaries of the merits of polar voyages. Much of exploration was in fact theatre, a series of performances to capture public attention and persuade governments to finance ambitious proposals. The achievements of explorers were promoted, celebrated, and manipulated, whilst explorers themselves became the subject of huge attention. Huw Lewis-Jones draws upon recovered texts and striking images, many reproduced for the first time since the nineteenth century, to show how exploration was projected through a series of spectacular visuals, helping us to reconstruct the ways that heroes and the wilderness were imagined. Elegantly written and richly illustrated, Imagining the Arctic offers original insights into our understanding of exploration and its pull on the public imagination.

Travel Writing Carl Thompson, 2011-05-16 An increasingly popular genre addressing issues of empire, colonialism, post-colonialism, globalization, gender, and politics, travel writing offers the reader a movement between the familiar and the unknown. In this volume, Carl Thompson introduces the genre, outlining competing definitions and key debates, provides a broad historical survey from the medieval period to the present day, explores the autobiographical dimensions of the form, looks at both men and women's travel writing, surveying a range of canonical and more marginal works drawn from both the colonial and postcolonial era, utilises both British and American travelogues to consider the genre's role in shaping the history of both nations. Concise and practical, Travel Writing is the ideal introduction for those new to the subject, as well as a crucial overview of current debates in the field.

Writing Arctic Disaster Adriana Craciun, 2016-03-10 This fascinating study examines how Victorian fixation on disastrous Northwest Passage expeditions has conditioned our understanding of the Arctic and Polar exploration
