what the problem is no matter how greatly sin has abounded the Christian counselor's stance is struck by the far more abounding nature of the grace of Jesus Christ in redemption What a difference this makes in counseling Jay E Adams With this book you'll gain insight into the rich theological framework that supports and directs your approach to how you help people change Transformative Encounters David W. The Challenges of Integrating Religion and Spirituality into Psychotherapy Francis A. Martin, 2024-04-23 This book examines personal and professional understandings of religion in psychotherapy and advocates for integrity competency and cultural pluralism in clinical practice A major feature of this book is that it confirms the massive proliferation of religion oriented approaches to counseling and therapy in recent years It attributes this rise to opportunism and exaggerated individualism among therapists and to the frequent failures of professional associations clinical preparation programs and other influences In response to these influences it identifies the need for guiding principles for integrating religion into therapy discusses the religious issues that clients bring to therapy and advocates for major changes in clinical practice with emphasis on integrity and competence Building on a large volume of research and using evidence based conclusions it clarifies how these two major features of contemporary life can be integrated with integrity and competence The author maintains that religion should be a feature of the practice of counseling and therapy so long as it addresses the clinically relevant needs of clients However it also explores how the religion of counselors and therapists often expresses the needs of counselors and therapists instead of addressing the needs of their clients In the context of these questions and discussion of contentious challenges this book provides guidelines for relating religion with clinical practice and recommends needed actions by clinical preparation programs professional associations individual therapists state legislatures licensing boards social service agencies and corporations All of this stands on the conspicuous need for professional accountability in the delivery of mental health care counselling In what ways should one's counselling practice be conducted in order to fulfil one's role as a Christian counsellor Is there a counselling practice that truly penetrates into the secular approaches while remaining faithful to the Christian traditions of healing What are the theological roots of secular counselling How may secular counselling both reinforce and challenge the Christian faith In answering these questions this book engages readers to navigate between two frames of reference one Eastern secular social scientific and modern the other Western Christian theological and traditional At levels of both theory and practice this book undertakes to integrate synthesize hybridize revise dichotomize and antagonize the two It proposes a revised presence centred counselling approach which may serve as a perspective that helps us to see things in more depth as we shuttle back and forth between the two frames This book thus negotiates a revised presence centred form of counselling that is theologically grounded socially scientifically informed and cross culturally sensitive As the author's counselling practice proceeds mainly in societies where Chinese is the majority the cross cultural examinations and proposals offered in this book have been bred in a space where Chinese culture meets the Christian Protestantism in particular West This book is an outgrowth of the author's experience teaching Christian counselling courses for 17 years and his 30 year clinical practice experience in places where East meets West namely Hong Kong and South China Guangdong Province
