Monasteries : a hundred jewels of European architecture Marianne Bernhard, 1998 Cathedrals ,1998 In 268 illustrations of which 143 are in full colour a period comes to life which stretches from the end of the Dark Ages through High Romanesque and High Gothic to the picturesque exuberance of Spanish and Austrian Baroque

A Modern History of European Cities Rosemary Wakeman, 2020-01-23 Rosemary Wakeman s original survey text comprehensively explores modern European urban history from 1815 to the present day It provides a journey to cities and towns across the continent in search of the patterns of development that have shaped the urban landscape as indelibly European The focus is on the built environment the social and cultural transformations that mark the patterns of continuity and change and the transition to modern urban society Including over 60 images that serve to illuminate the analysis the book examines whether there is a European city and if so what are its characteristics Wakeman offers an interdisciplinary approach that incorporates concepts from cultural and postcolonial studies as well as urban geography and provides full coverage of urban society not only in western Europe but also in eastern and southern Europe using various cities and city types to inform the discussion The book provides detailed coverage of the often neglected urbanization post 1945 which allows us to more clearly understand the modernizing arc Europe has followed over the last two centuries

The New Werner Twentieth Century Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica ,1906 Turrets, Towers, and Temples: The Great Buildings of the World, as Seen and Described by Famous Writers Esther

Singleton,2020-09-28 A yard or two farther we pass the hostelry of the Black Eagle and glancing as we pass through the square door of marble deeply moulded in the outer wall we see the shadows of its pergola of vines resting on an ancient well with a pointed shield carved on its side and so presently emerge on the bridge and Campo San Mois whence to the entrance into St Mark s Place called the Bocca di Piazza mouth of the square the Venetian character is nearly destroyed first by the frightful facade of San Mois which we will pause at another time to examine and then by the modernizing of the shops as they near the piazza and the mingling with the lower Venetian populace of lounging groups of English and Austrians We will push fast through them into the shadow of the pillars at the end of the Bocca di Piazza and then we forget them all for between those pillars there opens a great light and in the midst of it as we advance slowly the vast tower of St Mark seems to lift itself visibly forth from the level field of chequered stones and on each side the countless arches prolong themselves into ranged symmetry as if the rugged and irregular houses that pressed together above us in the dark alley had been struck back into sudden obedience and lovely order and all their rude casements and broken walls had been transformed into arches charged with goodly sculpture and fluted shafts of delicate stone And well may they fall back for beyond those troops of ordered arches there rises a vision out of the earth and all the great square seems to have opened from it in a kind of awe that we may see it far away a multitude of pillars and white domes clustered into a long low pyramid of coloured light a treasure heap it seems partly of gold and partly of opal and mother of pearl hollowed beneath into five great vaulted porches ceiled with fair mosaic and beset with sculpture of alabaster clear as amber and delicate as ivory sculpture fantastic and involved of palm leaves and lilies and grapes and pomegranates and birds clinging and fluttering among the branches all twined together into an endless network of buds and plumes and in the midst of it the solemn forms of angels sceptred and robed to the feet and leaning to each other across the gates their figures indistinct among the gleaming of the golden ground through the leaves beside them interrupted and dim like the morning light as it faded back among the branches of Eden when first its gates were angel guarded long ago And round the walls of the porches there are set pillars of variegated stones jasper and porphyry and deep green serpentine spotted with flakes of snow and marbles that half refuse and half yield to the sunshine Cleopatra like their bluest veins to kiss the shadow as it steals back from them revealing line after line of azure undulation as a receding tide leaves the waved sand their capitals rich with interwoven tracery rooted knots of herbage and drifting leaves of acanthus and vine and mystical signs all beginning and ending in the Cross and above them in the broad archivolts a continuous chain of language and of life angels and the signs of heaven and the labours of men each in its appointed season upon the earth and above these another range of glittering pinnacles mixed with white arches edged with scarlet flowers a confusion of delight amidst which the breasts of the Greek horses are seen blazing in their breadth of golden strength and the St Mark s Lion lifted on a blue field covered with stars until at last as if in ecstasy the crests of the arches break into a marble foam and toss themselves far into the blue sky in flashes and wreaths of sculptured spray as if the breakers on the Lido shore had been frost bound before they fell and the sea nymphs had inlaid them with coral and amethyst Seeing

Empires of Food Andrew Rimas,Evan Fraser,2010-06-15 We are what we eat this aphorism contains a profound truth about civilization one that has played out on the world historical stage over many millennia of human endeavor Using the colorful diaries of a sixteenth century merchant as a narrative guide Empires of Food vividly chronicles the fate of people and societies for the past twelve thousand years through the foods they grew hunted traded and ate and gives us fascinating and devastating insights into what to expect in years to come In energetic prose agricultural expert Evan D G Fraser and journalist Andrew Rimas tell gripping stories that capture the flavor of places as disparate as ancient Mesopotamia and imperial Britain taking us from the first city in the once thriving Fertile Crescent to today s overworked breadbaskets and rice bowls in the United States and China showing just what food has meant to humanity Cities culture art government and religion are founded on the creation and exchange of food surpluses complex societies built by shipping corn and wheat and rice up rivers and into the stewpots of history s generations But eventually inevitably the crops fail the fields erode or the temperature drops and the center of power shifts Cultures descend into dark ages of poverty famine and war It happened at the end of the Roman Empire when slave plantations overworked Europe s and Egypt s soil and drained its vigor It happened to the Mayans who abandoned their great cities during centuries of drought It happened in the fourteenth century when medieval societies crashed in famine and plague and again in the nineteenth century when catastrophic colonial schemes plunged half the world into a poverty from which it has never recovered And today even though we live in an age of astounding agricultural productivity and genetically modified crops our food supplies are once again in peril Empires of Food brilliantly recounts the history of cyclic consumption but it is also the story of the future of for example how a shrimp boat hauling up an empty net in the Mekong Delta could spark a riot in the Caribbean It tells what happens when a culture or nation runs out of food and shows us the face of the world turned hungry The authors argue that neither local food movements nor free market economists will stave off the next crash and they propose their own solutions A fascinating fresh history told through the prism of the dining table Empires of Food offers a grand scope and a provocative analysis of the world today indispensable in this time of global warming and food crises
