preconstructed word combinations in English The 17 papers of the volume are divided into four sections focusing on particular lexemes e g enjoy and its collocates types of word combinations e g proverbs and similes use related varieties such as the language of tourism or answering machine messages and user related varieties such as Aboriginal English or African English The sections are preceded by a prologue tracing the development of the study of formulaic language and followed by an epilogue which draws together the threads laid out in the various papers The relation between language and culture in general has been explored in a number of important works over the past ten years However the study of the relation between English phraseology and culture in particular has been largely neglected This volume is the first book length publication devoted entirely to this topic is about to change all of that This Christmas This year Holly is dreading Christmas but the next store neighbor is about to change her mind A Wish for Christmas With his weapons grade dangerous good looks India Ramone soon learns there s more to billionaire John Laurencelli than bad press and rumors The Principles of Art R.G. Collingwood,2016-09-21 I do not think of aesthetic theory as an attempt to investigate and expound eternal verities concerning the nature of an eternal object called Art but as an attempt to reach by thinking the solution of certain problems arising out of the situation in which artists find themselves here and now Everything written in this book has been written in the belief that it has a practical bearing direct or indirect upon the condition of art in England in 1937 and in the hope that artists primarily and secondarily persons whose interest in art is lively and sympathetic will find it of some use to them Hardly any space is devoted to criticizing other people s aesthetic doctrines not because I have not studied them nor because I have dismissed them as not worth considering but because I have something of my own to say and think the best service I can do to a reader is to say it as clearly as I can Of the three parts into which it is divided Book I is chiefly concerned to say things which any one tolerably acquainted with artistic work knows already the purpose of this being to clear up our minds as to the distinction between art proper which is what aesthetic is about and certain other things which are different from it but are often called by the same name Many false aesthetic theories are fairly accurate accounts of these other things and much bad artistic practice comes from confusing them with art proper These errors in theory and practice should disappear when the distinctions in question are properly apprehended In this way a preliminary account of art is reached but a second difficulty is now encountered This preliminary account according to the schools of philosophy now most fashionable in our own country cannot be true for it traverses certain doctrines taught in those schools and therefore according to them is not so much false as nonsensical Book II is therefore devoted to a philosophical exposition of the terms used in this preliminary account of art and an attempt to show that the conceptions they express are justified in spite of the current prejudice against them are indeed logically implied even in the philosophies that repudiate them The preliminary account of art has by now been converted into a philosophy of art But a third question remains Is this so called philosophy of art a mere intellectual exercise or has it practical consequences bearing on the way in which we ought to approach the practice of art whether as artists or as audience and hence because a philosophy of art is a theory as to the place of art in life as a whole the practice of life As I have already indicated the alternative I accept is the second one In Book III therefore I have tried to point out some of these practical consequences by suggesting what kinds of obligation the acceptance of this aesthetic theory would impose upon artists and audiences and in what kinds of way they could be met This book is organized as follows I Introduction Book I Art and Not Art II Art and Craft III Art and Representation IV Art as Magic V Art as Amusement VI Art Proper 1 As Expression VII Art Proper 2 As Imagination Book II The Theory of Imagination VIII Thinking and Feeling IX Sensation and Imagination X Imagination and Consciousness XI Language Book III The Theory of Art XII Art as Language XIII Art and Truth XIV The Artist and the
