Money Chase Congressional Campaign Finan:

The Money Chase David B. Magleby, Candice J. Nelson, 2010-12-01 The amount of money needed to run a competitive congressional campaign is staggering with special interests playing a central role in raising these funds Also of concern is the declining competitiveness of House elections And while recognition of the need to reform campaign financing is widespread partisan and House Senate differences over what these changes should be have complicated legislative efforts Almost 450 million was spent in both the 1986 and 1988 congressional campaigns much of it coming from wealthy contributors and political action committees PACs Increasing criticism of the current system will undoubtedly force Congress to keep campaign finance reform on its legislative agenda Using public opinion election and campaign spending data extensive interviews and a knowledge of practical politics Magleby and Nelson examine the central issues in the campaign financing debate the cost of congressional campaigns financial participation by the political parties and PACs existing and proposed limits on contributions and expenditures public financing and the role of the Federal Election Commission They propose a comprehensive package of reforms that will undoubtedly serve as a guide for future legislation

Interest Groups and Elections in Canada F. Leslie Seidle, 1991-01-01 The two studies in Interest Groups and Elections in Canada explore the nature and influence of special interest groups They consider different aspects of the question In the context of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms how can the laws intended to secure a fair electoral process be reconciled with freedom of expression Janet Hiebert reviews the limits on interest groups adopted in 1974 and amended in 1983 profiles the groups involved in the 1988 federal election and discusses relevant legislation and jurisprudence in the provinces and abroad She concludes that spending limits for parties and candidates will only be effective if there are also restrictions on independent expenditures during elections by groups and individuals Brian Tanguay and Barry Kay assess the influence attributed to locally oriented interest groups including by members of Parliament and conclude that these organizations have less influence on the political process than is the popular view The authors conclude that dissatisfaction is a key variable explaining the role of these interest groups and their activities during elections
