Money of the Mind James Grant,1994-05 The 1980s witnessed a lemming like rush into the sea of debt on the part of the American industrial and financial communities with consequences we are only beginning to appreciate But the speculative frenzy of the eighties didn t just happen It was the culmination of a long cycle of slow relaxation of credit practices the subject of James Grant s brilliant clear eyed history of American finance Two long running trends converged in the 1980s to create one of our greatest speculative booms the democratization of credit and the socialization of risk At the turn of the century it was almost impossible for the average working person to get a loan In the 1980s it was almost impossible to refuse one As the pace of lending grew the government undertook to bear more and more of the creditors risk a pattern begun in the Progressive era which reached full flower in the conservative administration of Ronald Reagan Based on original scholarship as well as firsthand observation Grant s book puts our recent love affair with debt in an entirely fresh often chilling perspective The result is required and wickedly entertaining reading for everyone who wants or needs to understand how the world really works A brilliantly eccentric kaleidoscopic tour of our credit lunacy A splendid tooth gnashing saga that should be savored for its ghoulish humor and passionately debated for its iconoclastic analysis It is a fitting epitaph to the credit binge of the 80s Ron Chernow The Wall Street Journal and Bears How the Stock Market Reflects the Renewing Cycles of Life      Building in China Jeffrey W Cody, 2021-01-15

Building in China is about striking an architectural balance between the pull of monumental tradition and the push of technological novelty. Centering on the dynamic period of post imperial and pre Communist China, the book focuses on the building and city planning initiatives of Henry Murphy, a little known American architect who initially ventured to China in 1914 to design a campus for the Yale in China programme, but who then found himself captivated by a professional and cultural challenge that lasted two decades: how to preserve China's rich architectural traditions while also designing new buildings using up to date Western technologies. Murphy's buildings were compromises, wine in old bottles as he once called them, and the book uses those tales as lenses through which to understand not only Murphy's quest to find a middle ground for his architecture in China, but also to gaze at a tumultuous society facing an uncertain future. Murphy's buildings were more than vessels for either aesthetic visions or technical expertise; inadvertently, they became political emblems as Chinese rulers such as Chiang Kai shek and Sun Yat sen's son called on Murphy for city planning advice to complement their hopes for urban reconstruction. There are few serious studies of Western architects in the twentieth century who practiced in non Western contexts, and those scant studies that have been published concentrate largely on British, French or Dutch examples in colonial settings. Hence, the book makes significant contributions to the fields of both American and Chinese architectural history.
