Monsoonal Australia C.M. Haynes, M. Ridpath, M.A.J. Williams, 1991-01-01 This work covers the history of the landscape the climate the vegetation the vertebrate animals Aboriginal association with the land and conservation and the future

Landscape and Vegetation Ecology of the Kakadu Region, Northern Australia C.M. Finlayson, Isabell von Oertzen, 2012-12-06 The Kakadu region of northern Australia is swarming over the landscape with their meters steeped in cultural history and natural grandeur and notebooks and a vast store of information Over the past few decades the rich cultural and was gathered This book is a summary of the natural heritage of this fascinating region has immense amount of information collected on the become increasingly known to more and more geobotanic features of the region The cultural people At the same time as the natural heritage of heritage of the traditional Aboriginal inhabitants the region was being recognised by conservation of the region and the diverse and populous fauna vationists and tourists alike the mineral wealth were also investigated but both these subjects was being recognised by mining enterprises warrant their own separate volumes and are not Almost inevitably the mix of conservation and treated here Throughout this period of intense scientific mining interests led to conflict that is still not completely resolved However much has happened interest the very nature of the region has changed opened over the years and we now have a major Besides changes in human habitation the physical and biological environment has come under national park that is largely leased from the Aboriginal traditional owners under a management challenge and even threat We now have more weed species We no longer have the large ment agreement Eucalypt

Ecology Jann Elizabeth Williams, John Woinarski, 1997-11-13 The dominant trees of Australia eucalypts make up a remarkable genus This authoritative volume provides current reviews by active researchers of many disciplines including evolutionary history genetics distribution and modelling the relationship of eucalypts to fire and nutrients ecophysiology pollination and reproductive ecology interactions between eucalypts and other co existing biota including fungi invertebrates and vertebrates and conservation and management Together these reviews shed light on the reasons for the great success of eucalypts in Australian environments and provide a comprehensive summary for comparison with the ecology of major woody plant genera in other continents This volume is of particular relevance to Australian ecologists but also provides a stimulating perspective to students of vegetation ecology in all continents Wild Harvest Karen Hardy, Lucy Kubiak

Martens, 2016-04-20 Plants are fundamental to life they are used by all human groups and most animals They provide raw materials vitamins and essential nutrients and we could not survive without them Yet access to plant use before the Neolithic can be challenging In some places plant remains rarely survive and reconstructing plant use in pre agrarian contexts needs to be conducted using a range of different techniques This lack of visible evidence has led to plants being undervalued both in terms of their contribution to diet and as raw materials This book outlines why the role of plants is required for a better understanding of hominin and pre agrarian human life and it offers a variety of ways in which this can be achieved Wild

Harvest is divided into three sections In section 1 each chapter focuses on a specific feature of plant use by humans this covers the role of carbohydrates the need for and effects of processing methods the role of plants in self medication among apes plants as raw materials and the extent of evidence for plant use prior to the development of agriculture in the Near East Section 2 comprises seven chapters which cover different methods available to obtain information on plants and the third section has five chapters each covering a topic related to ethnography ethnohistory or ethnoarchaeology and how these can be used to improve our understanding of the role of plants in the pre agrarian past

Culture, Ecology and Economy of Fire Management in North Australian Savannas Jeremy Russell-Smith, Peter Whitehead, Peter Cooke, 2009-10-26 This engaging volume explores the management of fire in one of the world s most flammable landscapes Australia s tropical savannas where on average 18% of the landscape is burned annually Impacts have been particularly severe in the Arnhem Land Plateau a centre of plant and animal diversity on Indigenous land Culture Ecology and Economy of Fire Management in North Australian Savannas documents a remarkable collaboration between Arnhem Land s traditional landowners and the scientific community to arrest a potentially catastrophic fire driven decline in the natural and cultural assets of the region not by excluding fire but by using it better through restoration of Indigenous control over burning This multi disciplinary treatment encompasses the history of fire use in the savannas the post settlement changes that altered fire patterns the personal histories of a small number of people who lived most of their lives on the plateau and critically their deep knowledge of fire and how to apply it to care for country Uniquely it shows how such knowledge and commitment can be deployed in conjunction with rigorous formal scientific analysis advanced technology new cross cultural institutions and the emerging carbon economy to build partnerships for controlling fire at scales that were until this demonstration thought beyond effective intervention

Flammable Australia Ross A. Bradstock, Jann E. Williams, Malcolm A. Gill, 2002 Fire is pivotal to the functioning of ecosystems in Australia affecting the distribution and abundance of the continent s unique and highly diverse range of plants and animals Conservation of this natural biodiversity therefore requires a good understanding of scientific processes involved in the action of fire on the landscape This book provides an up to date synthesis of current knowledge in this area and its application in contemporary land management Central to the discussion is an exploration of the concept of the fire regime and its interactions with biodiversity

Ecology of Australian Freshwater Fishes Keith Walker, Paul Humphries, 2013-04-10 This edited volume reviews our past and present understanding of the ecology of Australian freshwater fishes It compares patterns and processes in Australia with those on other continents discusses the local relevance of ecological models from the northern hemisphere and considers how best to manage our species and their habitats in the face of current and future threats In view of these challenges the need for redress is urgent The chapters are written by some of our foremost researchers and managers developing themes that underpin our knowledge of the ecology conservation and management of fish and fish habitats For each theme the authors formulate a synthesis of what is known consider the need for new perspectives and identify gaps and opportunities for research monitoring and management The themes have an Australian context but draw upon ideas and principles developed by fish biologists in other parts of the world The science of freshwater fish ecology in Australia has grown rapidly from its roots in natural history and taxonomy This book offers an introduction for students researchers and managers one that the authors hope will carry Australian fish biology and resource management to new levels of understanding Seeds Steve W. Adkins, Sheldon C. Navie, Sarah

Ashmore, 2007-01-01 These proceedings contain 43 papers on the aspects of seed conservation development biotechnology germination dormancy and ecology World Savannas Jayalaxshm Mistry, Andrea Beradi, 2014-09-15 An interdisciplinary text on the world's savannas covering the geography ecology economics and politics of savanna regions Savannas are a distinct vegetation type covering a third of the world's land surface area and supporting a fifth of the world's population There has been a wide range of literature on the subject but the majority of work has focused on the ecology or development of savanna areas ignoring the wider interdisciplinary issues affecting contemporary savannas World Savannas aims to buck this trend providing students with an up to date and comprehensive introduction to the global importance of savannas

Global Biodiversity in a Changing Environment F. Stuart Chapin, Osvaldo E. Sala, Elisabeth

Huber-Sannwald, 2013-12-01 The scientific community has voiced two general concerns about the future of the earth Climatologists and oceanographers have focused on the changes in our physical environment changes in the climate the oceans and the chemistry of the air we breathe Environmental biologists on the other hand have addressed issues of conservation and the extinction of species There is increasing evidence that these two broad concerns are intertwined and mutually dependent Past changes in biodiversity have both responded to and caused changes in Earth's environment In its discussions of ten key terrestrial biomes and freshwater ecosystems this volume uses our broad understanding of global environmental change to present the first comprehensive scenarios of biodiversity for the twenty first century Combining physical earth science with conservation biology Future Scenarios of Global Biodiversity provides a starting point for regional assessments on all scales The book will be of interest to those concerned with guiding research on the changing environment of the earth and with planning future policy especially in accordance with the Global Biodiversity Convention Australian

Vegetation David A. Keith, 2017-06-15 Australian Vegetation has been an essential reference for students and researchers in botany ecology and natural resource management for over 35 years Now fully updated and with a new team of authors the third edition presents the latest insights on the patterns and processes that shaped the vegetation of Australia The first part of the book provides a synthesis of ecological processes that influence vegetation traits throughout the continent using a new classification of vegetation New chapters examine the influences of climate soils fire regimes herbivores and aboriginal people on vegetation in addition to completely revised chapters on evolutionary biogeography quaternary vegetation history and alien plants The book's second half presents detailed ecological portraits for each major vegetation type and offers data rich perspectives and comparative analysis presented in tables graphs maps and colour illustrations This authoritative book will inspire readers to learn and explore first hand the vegetation of Australia Management and Ecology of River Fisheries Ian G. Cowx, 2008-04-30 In this edited work international experts in fisheries management and ecology review and appraise the status of river fisheries assessment methodology constraints on development issues and options regarding management and associated problems in both temperate and tropical countries Recommendations are made to improve management and an attempt is made to provide guidelines for formulating policy for planning methodology and for evaluating future activities Assessment of fish community structure and dynamics Factors constraining stock recruitment Fish habitat requirements Instream flow needs Impact of water resource schemes Rehabilitation of river fisheries Enhancement of fish stocks Exploitation of stocks Management of migratory fish stocks Conservation of endangered species Integrated river management Bioeconomic issues Legislation Multinational management of rivers Case studies

Handbook of Landscape Archaeology Bruno David, Julian Thomas, 2016-06-03 Over the past three decades landscape has become an umbrella term to describe many different strands of archaeology From the processualist study of settlement patterns to the phenomenologist s experience of the natural world from human impact on past environments to the environment s impact on human thought action and interaction the term has been used In this volume for the first time over 80 archaeologists from three continents attempt a comprehensive definition of the ideas and practices of landscape archaeology covering the theoretical and the practical the research and conservation and encasing the term in a global framework As a basic reference volume for landscape archaeology this volume will be the benchmark for decades to come All royalties on this Handbook are donated to the World Archaeological Congress The Oxford Handbook of Wetland

Archaeology Francesco Menotti, Aidan O'Sullivan, 2013 This Handbook sets out the key issues and debates in the theory and practice of wetland archaeology which has played a crucial role in studies of our past Due to the high quantity of preserved organic materials found in humid environments the study of wetlands has allowed archaeologists to reconstruct people s everyday lives in great detail Life on the Margins Patrick Faulkner, 2013-12-20 The research presented here is primarily concerned with human environment interactions on the tropical coast of northern Australia during the late Holocene Based on the suggestion that significant change can occur within short time frames as a direct result of interactive processes the archaeological evidence from the Point Blane Peninsula Blue Mud Bay is used to address the issue of how much change and variability occurred in hunter gatherer economic and social structures during the late Holocene in coastal northeastern Arnhem Land The suggestion proposed here is that processes of environmental and climatic change resulted in changes in resource distribution and abundance which in turn affected patterns of settlement and resource exploitation strategies levels of mobility and potentially the size of foraging groups on the coast The question of human behavioural variability over the last 3000 years in Blue Mud Bay has been addressed by examining issues of scale and resolution in archaeological interpretation specifically the differential chronological and spatial patterning of shell midden and mound sites on the peninsula in conjunction with variability in molluscan resource exploitation To this end the biological and ecological characteristics of the dominant molluscan species is considered in detail in combination with assessing the potential for human impact through predation Investigating pre contact coastal foraging behaviour via the archaeological record provides an opportunity for change to recognised in a number of ways For example a differential focus on resources variations in group size and levels of mobility can all be identified It has also been shown that human environment interactions are non linear or progressive and that human behaviour during the late Holocene was both flexible and dynamic

Aquatic Ecosystems Nicholas V. C. Polunin, 2008-09-11 Concern about future supplies of fresh water to society to meet the full range of human needs now comes very high on the priority list of global societal issues An overarching issue which this book addresses is whether global climate change is a dominant driver of change in the structure and function of all natural water based ecosystems or whether direct human population growth and accelerated consumption are playing an equal or greater role This book divides the whole aquatic realm into 21 ecosystems from those on land both saline and fresh water to those of the open and deep oceans It draws on the understanding of leading ecologists to summarize the state and likely condition by the year 2025 of each of the ecosystems Written for academic researchers and environmental professionals the aim is to put the climate change debate into a broader context as a basis for conservation science and planning

Economics and the Dreamtime Noel George Butlin, 1993-12-13 Examines the processes which allowed economic control of Australia to pass from Aboriginal to European hands within 60 years of settlement

Birds of the Darwin Region Niven McCrie, Richard Noske, 2015-09 Birds of the Darwin Region is the first comprehensive treatment of the avifauna of Darwin a city located in Australia s monsoon tropics where seasons are defined by rainfall rather than by temperature With its mangrove lined bays and creeks tidal mudflats monsoon rainforests savanna woodlands and freshwater lagoons Darwin has retained all of its original habitats in near pristine condition and is home or host to 323 bird species Unlike other Australian cities it has no established exotic bird species Following an introduction to the history of ornithology in the region and a detailed appraisal of its avifauna species accounts describe the habitats relative abundance behaviour ecology and breeding season of 258 regularly occurring species based on over 500 fully referenced sources and original observations by the authors Distribution maps and charts of the seasonality of each species are presented based on a dataset comprising almost 120 000 records one third of which were contributed by the authors Stunning colour photographs adorn the accounts of most species including some of the 65 species considered as vagrants to the region This book is a must read for professional ornithologists and amateur birders and an indispensable reference for local biologists teachers and students and government and non government environmental
