Montacute House Somerset:

Montacute House, Somerset National Trust (Great Britain),1977 Montacute House, Somerset National Trust (Great Britain),1985 Montacute House, Somerset Mark Girouard,National Trust (Great Britain),1961 Montacute House Nicholas Cooper,Jo Moore,2018 Montacute is one of the loveliest of English houses The honey colored Ham Hill stone of its two faultless fa ades glows in the morning and afternoon sun It is satisfyingly large but not overwhelmingly grand its rooms seem dignified but comfortable at the same time Like every old house Montacute has been altered over the years but these changes seem only to make it more human When Montacute came to the National Trust in 1931 it was empty and unloved But over the past century thanks to a series of generous gifts and a pioneering partnership with the National Portrait Gallery the house has come back to life so that today it is many people s favorite Providing the perfect setting for the house is the garden which is a rare surviving example of Elizabethan design Montacute House, Somerset ,1989 Montacute House, Somerset James Lees-Milne,195? Montacute House, Somerset Walter H. Godfrey,1914 Montacute House, Somerset Montacute House,1961 Montacute House, Somerset Mark Girouard,National Trust (Great Britain),1968 Montacute House, Somerset Mark Girouard,1966 Montacute House Malcolm Rogers,National Trust,1991 Montacute House, Somerset National Trust,1972 Montacute House, Near Yeovil, Somerset. [A Folding Guide.]. Stuart Petre Brodie Mais,1950 English Homes: Period III, v. 1-2: Late Tudor and early Stuart, 1558-1649. 1922-1927 Henry Avray Tipping,1922 English Homes Henry Avray Tipping,1922 The English Country House Garden George Plumptre,2018-10-02 This book will inspire and delight the stories of these gardens so compellingly captured by George Plumptre make the reader stop and tarry awhile marvelling at the energy the vision and the passion of the people who created gardens such as Hidcote Sissinghurst and Great Dixter The English Garden A feast of horticulture and Englishness House here is a space to wander and relax to share secrets and above all to enjoy afternoon tea But even the most peaceful of gardens also take passion and hard work to create This new book takes a fresh look at the English country house garden starting with the owners and the stories behind the making of the gardens Glorious photographs capture the gardens at their finest moments through the seasons and a sparkling and erudite text presents twenty five gardens some grand some personal some celebrated some never before photographed to explore why this garden style has been so very enduring and influential From the Victorian grandeur of Tyntesfield and Cragside to the Arts from Scampston in the same family since the 17th century to new gardens by Dan Pearson and Tom Stuart Smith and with favourites such as Hidcote and Great Dixter alongside new discoveries this book will be a delicious treat for garden lovers English Homes: Period III, v. 1-2: Late Tudor and early Stuart, 1558-1649. 1922-27 Henry Avray Tipping,1922 Faded and Threadbare Historic Textiles and their Role in Houses Open to the Public Margaret Ponsonby,2016-04-15 Many historic houses that open to the public in England and Wales particularly those owned by the National Trust preserve their contents rather than restore them to a particular period The former owners of these houses often retained objects from various periods and this layering of history produces interiors that look aged and patinated Although the reason for this preservation and lack of fashionable renewable can be attributed to declining economic fortunes in the twentieth century there are many examples of families practising this method of homemaking over a much longer period Taking National Trust properties as its central focus this book examines three interlocking themes to examine the role of historic textiles Firstly it looks at houses with preserved contents together with the reasons for individual families choosing this lifestyle secondly the role of the National Trust as both guardian and interpreter of these houses and their collections and finally and most importantly the influence of textiles to contribute to the appearance of interiors and their physical attributes that carry historical resonances of the past The importance of preserved textiles in establishing the visual character of historic houses is a neglected area and therefore the prominence given to textiles in this project constitutes an original contribution to the study of these houses Drawing upon a range of primary sources including literature produced by the National Trust for their sites and documentary sources for the families and their houses such as diaries letters and household accounts the study takes a broad approach that will be of interest to all those with an interest in material culture heritage collecting studies and cultural history

The Country Home, 1910 British and Irish Paintings in Public Collections Christopher Wright, Catherine May Gordon, 2006-01-01
This book sets a new standard as a work of reference It covers British and Irish art in public collections from the beginning of the sixteenth century to the end of the nineteenth and it encompasses nearly 9 000 painters and 90 000 paintings in more than 1 700 separate collections The book includes as well pictures that are now lost some as a consequence of the Second World War and others because of de accessioning mostly from 1950 to about 1975 when Victorian art was out of fashion By listing many tens of thousands of previously unpublished works including around 13 000 which do not yet have any form of attribution this book becomes a unique and indispensable work of reference one that will transform the study of British and Irish painting
