Developing a Profession of Librarianship in Australia John Metcalfe, John Wallace Metcalfe, 1996 No descriptive material is available for this title Reference Library of Black America Vol. II Joseph M. Palmisano, Jessie Carney Smith, 2000 Presents information on all aspects of African American life including politics employment and income education religion literature performing arts science and medicine and sports Gaining Voice Christopher J. Clark, 2019-02-25 Scholars studying the causes and consequences of political representation particularly in terms of gender and race often turn to a concept called descriptive representation Descriptive representation tells us the degree to which elected officials resemble their constituents and whether such a resemblance has a bearing on the way they legislate In other words do people vote for candidates of their same racial ethnic background or gender If they do does this affect the type of policies an elected official pursues Further if citizens see people who look like them in office does it have an effect on their political attitudes and participation In this book Christopher J Clark argues that descriptive representation is a more multi faceted phenomenon than previously shown particularly when observed at the state level He contends that black political involvement political attitudes and public opinion are contingent on more than being represented by a single black elected official Rather they hinge on the proportion of African Americans making up a state legislature what Clark terms black seat share as well as the degree to which that proportion reflects the demographic makeup of the state As well Clark pinpoints the critical mass of African American legislators necessary to initiate the creation of black caucuses an important institution for minority representation Clark bases his study on an examination of black representation in state legislatures between 1966 and 2010 looking particularly at black political opinion and involvement in the development of welfare and education policy The African American Experience Arvarh E. Strickland, Robert E. Weems Jr., 2000-11-30 Compared to the early decades of the 20th century when scholarly writing on African Americans was limited to a few titles on slavery Reconstruction and African American migration the last thirty years have witnessed an explosion of works on the African American experience With the Civil Rights and Black Power movements of the 1960s came an increasing demand for the study and teaching of African American history followed by the publication of increasing numbers of titles on African American life and history This volume provides a comprehensive bibliographical and analytical guide to this growing body of literature as well as an analysis of how the study of African Americans has changed The Evasion of African American Workers Roderick O. Ford, 2008-10-15 The Evasion of African American Workers explains through several thought provoking essays precisely how the American legal system avoids the legal mandates of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 as well as other state and federal fair employment laws This work consists of stand alone essays which address different aspects of this problem including legal and social history and statutory construction
