Mesopotamia to our present day globalized society readers will learn how humans interacted and still interact with the environment around them as well as the environment's role in not only shaping the society's world view but enabling the building of socially stratified and successful civilizations. Additionally, the book examines how civilizations interacted with others from developing cross boundary trade to initiating wars of expansion. Finally, readers will also understand the impact of the study and application of geography such as the creation and use of maps and the study of cultures and Earth's processes. Readers will come away with a new understanding of the relevance of geography to not only human history but contemporary events as well as their day to day lives. Equips both specialists and newcomers with the historical intellectual and political context for engagement with the environment. Providing multiple points of entry into a dynamic, fast growing field, A Companion to Global Environmental History explores the many contours of the relationship between human societies and the natural world on which they depend. Bringing together essays by an international roster of both established experts and emerging scholars, this volume covers a uniquely broad range of temporal, geographic, thematic, and contextual approaches to the practice of global environmental history. Now in its second edition, the Companion is fully revised to reflect major research developments and new trajectories within the field. Updated chapters that present new evidence for longstanding debates and innovative applications of environmental history are accompanied by six entirely new chapters on India, China, Africa, early modern cities, global environmental governance, and European environmentalism. Offering fresh insights into environmental thought, culture, policy, and politics, A Companion to Global Environmental History, Second Edition, is an ideal textbook for undergraduate and graduate students and an invaluable reference for scholars, researchers, and environmental historians.
