The Economics and Politics of Sports Facilities Wilbur C. Rich,2000-05-30 Rich and his contributing authors provide a political and economic analysis of sports stadium construction in the United States the impact it has on the sports industry itself and on the host communities in which stadiums and arenas are built The book brings together the research of leading academic analysts of sports in American society and gives a candid assessment of the claims and benefits the sports industry makes in its continuing promotion of new stadium construction Focusing on Baltimore Cleveland Chicago Boston Detroit New Orleans Toledo and Phoenix the authors examine the topic from the perspectives of history politics and economics and in doing so they raise several questions about taxpayer and community protection issues Specifically what do communities really get out of these facilities They point out that even as new and more expensive facilities are being built Congress has not provided taxpayers and cities any real protection from the risks involved in stadium investment Rich and his contributors examine how the pro stadium coalitions mobilize and explain why stadium supporters manage to win most of their construction initiatives In doing so the contributors challenge the conventional wisdom that stadiums stimulate economic development and provide good jobs On the contrary they have not lived up to the promises owners made to their host communities Neither have they generated high paying jobs nor have they met their operating costs The book concludes with ways in which sports franchise owners can be held more accountable to their communities The result is a powerful well reasoned skeptical but fair assessment of a growing phenomenon and an important resource for professionals and academics in all fields of public policy administration and urban development and management

Euchner,1994-09-01 Details how owners have shamelessly played cities against one another to get sweetheart deals for their stadiums Sports Illustrated Can a sports franchise blackmail a city into getting what it wants a new stadium say or favorable leasing terms by threatening to relocate In 1982 the owners of the Chicago White Sox pledged to keep the team in Chicago if the city approved a 5 million tax exempt bond to finance construction of luxury suites at Comiskey Park The city council approved it A few years later when Comiskey Park was in need of renovation the owners threatened to move the team to Florida unless a new stadium was built A site was chosen near the old stadium property condemned residents evicted and a new stadium built We had to make threats the owners said If we didn t have the threat of moving we wouldn t have gotten the deal Sports is not a dominant industry in any city this book points out yet it receives the kind of attention one might expect to be lavished on major producers and employers In Playing the Field Charles Euchner examines the relationships between Los Angeles and the Raiders Baltimore and the Colts and the Orioles and Chicago and the White Sox arguing that in the absence of public standards for equitable arbitration between cities and teams the sports industry has the ability to steer negotiations in a way that leaves cities vulnerable He reveals what lies behind this leverage and what that says about the urban political process
