supremacy and the possibility of dismantling white supremacy We are interested both in the possible insights that Buddhist metaphysical epistemological and ethical analyses can bring to understanding race and whiteness as well as the potential limitations of such Buddhist inspired approaches In their chapters contributors draw on Buddhist philosophical and contemplative traditions to offer fresh insightful and powerful perspectives on issues regarding racial identity and whiteness including such themes as cultural appropriation mechanisms of racial injustice and racial justice phenomenology of racial oppression epistemologies of racial ignorance liberatory practices with regard to racism Womanism and the intersections of gender based raced based and sexuality based oppressions Authors make use of both contemporary and ancient Buddhist philosophical and contemplative traditions These include various Asian traditions including Theravada Mahayana Tantra and Zen as well as comparatively new American Buddhist traditions

Contemporary Gay American Poets and Playwrights Emmanuel S. Nelson,2003-06-30 Gay presence is nothing new to American verse and theater Homoerotic themes are discernible in American poetry as early as the 19th century and identifiably gay characters appeared on the American stage more than 70 years ago But aside from a few notable exceptions gay artists of earlier generations felt compelled to avoid sexual candor in their writings Conversely most contemporary gay poets and playwrights are free from such constraints and have created a remarkable body of work This reference is a guide to their creative achievements Alphabetically arranged entries present 62 contemporary gay American poets and dramatists While the majority of included writers are younger artists who came of age in the post Stonewall U S some are older authors whose work has continued or persisted into recent decades A number of these writers are well known including Edward Albee Harvey Fierstein and Allen Ginsberg Others such as Alan Bowne Timothy Liu and Robert O Hara merit wider recognition Each entry is written by an expert contributor and includes a biography a discussion of major works and themes an overview of the author s critical reception and primary and secondary bibliographies

Cyber Zen Gregory Price Grieve,2016-12-08 Cyber Zen ethnographically explores Buddhist practices in the online virtual world of Second Life

Does typing at a keyboard and moving avatars around the screen however count as real Buddhism If authentic practices must mimic the actual world then Second Life Buddhism does not In fact a critical investigation reveals that online Buddhist practices have at best only a family resemblance to canonical Asian traditions and owe much of their methods to the late twentieth century field of cybernetics If however they are judged existentially by how they enable users to respond to the suffering generated by living in a highly mediated consumer society then Second Life Buddhism consists of authentic spiritual practices Cyber Zen explores how Second Life Buddhist enthusiasts form communities identities locations and practices that are both products of and authentic responses to contemporary Network Consumer Society Gregory Price Grieve illustrates that to some extent all religion has always been virtual and gives a glimpse of possible future alternative forms of religion

Identities in Motion Peter X Feng,2002-08-14 Considers questions of Asian American Identity and issues of homeland and home in Asian American film 98 Wounds Justin Chin,2011-12-13 A gay punk rock Chinese American in the age of AIDS Chin confronts all manner of hypocrisy San Francisco Chronicle 98 Wounds is a series of improbably linked stories that reimagines and reconciles the abject the outlaw the ostracized the misfits and the cranky contrarians among us Gay people have never been as free or divided as in today's society. As the gay majority surges into the mainstream, a social construct has emerged depicting Good Gays and Bad Gays. Endless mythmaking goes into dehumanizing the Bad Barebackers, poz sexpigs, meth users, sexual libertines, and fetishists. They have been blamed, shamed, and disdained. Any vicious untruth or loathsome rumor about them, even those contrary to science or common sense, is accepted without question. The characters populating 98 Wounds run roughshod in a city spiraling towards collapse. They broker urgent desires in constant pursuit of identity, obsession, rituals of hope, even the simplicity of an ordinary life. They unwaveringly root for their own understanding of belonging, contentment, pleasure, and love. In 98 Wounds, either we are all damned or we are all saved, a sentiment that speaks to all cultures in these uncertain times. Award-winning writer Justin Chin is the author of six books, including Bite Hard (Manic D Press) and Mongrel (St. Martin's Press). His works have been widely anthologized. Born in Malaysia, raised and educated in Singapore, shipped to the United States by way of Hawaii, he currently lives in San Francisco, California.

Poetics and Justice in America, Japan, and Taiwan Dean Anthony Brink, 2021-06-28. Poetics and Justice in America, Japan, and Taiwan shows how entitlements are implicated in all areas of life, human and nonhuman, that poetry reaches. Through a creative adaptation of Badiou's philosophical framing, this book argues that poetry matters as a form of media particularly suited to integrating diverse fields of knowledge and attention in newspapers, Tweets, and performance, as well as volumes of poetry. Recasting intertextuality as more relational than referential, the author argues for the importance of poetry in realizing how social change and ecological justice are bound up in our orientations of affiliation. Each chapter focuses on particular sets of problems engaged by poets in different contexts to various ends in Japan, the US, and Taiwan. Some chapters explore the subtle implications of openly provocative styles, while others question the muted poetic intimations of injustices that are left standing unchanged in the name of aesthetics. Poets and performance artists featured include Amiri Baraka, John Ashbery, Tawara Machi, Rodrigo Toscano, Hung Hung, and John Cage. The author argues for examining poetic expressions in terms of what discursive fusions and affiliations they embody beyond the intimation of good intentions or ironic passing over.
