of imaginative fiction about the alien arguing that studying the alien will reveal why this archetype is necessary in the development of humanity's understanding of its own intrinsic nature as a sapient being. When a science fiction writer writes about aliens, Monk asserts, he or she is saying something that can and should be taken seriously by readers. Furthermore, it is being expressed in a particular story-telling mode that deserves to be treated with respect. By discussing the creation of the form of the science-fictional alien, its psyche, and the context in which aliens and humans interact, Monk brings into focus a topic that has not been given the rightful discussion it deserves. In addition to examining the alien in the science-fiction short story, novella, and novelette, Monk evaluates its role in pre-postmodernist and postmodernist criticism and theory. The author also draws on relevant writings by editors, writers, and fans, including editorial letters, columns, and reviews, to place the stories in the context of science fiction. By drawing on all of these sources, Alien Theory brings into focus a topic that will be of interest not only to academics and students but also to the general reader. Urania's Daughters Roger C. Schlobin, 1983

St. James Guide to Science Fiction Writers Jay P. Pederson, 1996 Concise discussions of the lives and principal works of prominent science-fiction authors, written by subject experts. Liberty's World Lee Killough, 1985 The planet seemed like salvation for the dying colony ship Invictus; except within a day of landing, the colonists found the world to be inhabited and themselves caught between two opposing cannibalistic armies. For Liberty Ibarra, who learned languages fast, the situation called for courage, tact, and a blind faith in the aliens' envoy, the brother of the enigmatic emperor. Until she learned that her friend was also a political schemer with a talent for assassination, then it began to look as though the humans had dived over the edge of the pan straight into the fire. Back cover. The Senior High School Paperback Collection John Thomas Gillespie, 1986 Provides an annotated list of more than four thousand paperbacks, including fiction, poetry, and books on religion, art, crafts, sports, science, music, history, and education. Paperbound Books in Print, 1991 More Than 100 Women Science Fiction Writers Sharon Yntema, 1988 Library Journal, 1980 New Eves Janrae Frank, Jean Marie Stine, Forrest J.
