Monkeys And Apes First Discoverys:

Cassell's Natural History Peter Martin Duncan, 1883 Baboons Kevin J. Holmes, 2000 Introduces the baboon's physical characteristics, habits, food, and relationship to humans Cassell's natural history, ed. by P.M. Duncan. People's ed Cassell Ltd, 1901 A Romp Thru Science Bernie Keating, 2012-07-16 Why Science We are fascinated by discovery who discovered what and how This ranges from a look outward at the night sky with scientists like Kepler astronauts like Neil Armstrong to physicist like Einstein chemists like Marie Curie and Linus Pauling an inward look at psychologists such as Skinner and Maslow and philosophers like Plato Join Keating as he explores the pursuit of scientific discovery from his background as a physicist and a long career in the margins of the academic world From Where We Came Chris Young Kelly, 2021-04-18 Did you know that a significant percentage of us are part Neanderthal in our genetic makeup So were they as smart as we are Why and how are we different Could we talk to them Or more interestingly did we What do these questions have to do with from where we came A comprehensive overview of how we came to be If you're searching for answers and tired of information overload from the media you are not alone Fortunately despite all the noise evolution boils down to a few physics and math principles A significant part of the basic process by which we evolved from molecules can be summed up with math similar to the process of boarding a city bus Through pop culture references personal experiences humor graphics and common sense let's explore this topic through one physicist's eyes wrapped in plain English We will dive through evolution at the molecular and human levels connected by cause and effect Follow along as we explore how humans have survived and even prospered against all odds through millions of years It should become apparent that we are all alike in every way except for minute differences in our genes We cannot help but be motivated to find ways to better ourselves as a species We are all blood brothers and sisters all 7.8 billion of us after all Global Environments Through the Quaternary David E. Anderson, Andrew S. Goudie, Adrian G. Parker, 2007-01-25 Global Environments through the Quaternary delves into the environmental changes that have taken place during the Quaternary the two to three million years during which man has inhabited the Earth It is essential reading for any students seeking a balanced objective overview of this truly interdisciplinary subject Apes and Human Evolution Russell H. Tuttle, 2014-02-17 In this masterwork Russell H Tuttle synthesizes a vast research literature in primate evolution and behavior to explain how apes and humans evolved in relation to one another and why humans became a bipedal tool making culture inventing species distinct from other hominoids Along the way he refutes the influential theory that men are essentially killer apes sophisticated but instinctively aggressive and destructive beings Situating humans in a broad context Tuttle musters convincing evidence from morphology and recent fossil discoveries to reveal what early primates ate where they slept how they learned to walk upright how brain and hand anatomy evolved simultaneously and what else happened evolutionarily to cause humans to diverge from their closest relatives Despite our genomic similarities with bonobos chimpanzees and gorillas humans are unique among primates in occupying a symbolic niche of values and beliefs based on symbolically mediated cognitive processes Although apes exhibit behaviors that strongly suggest they can think salient elements of human culture speech mating proscriptions kinship structures and moral codes are symbolic systems that are not manifest in ape niches This encyclopedic volume is both a milestone in primatological research and a critique of what is known and yet to be discovered about human and ape potential

Debating Humankind's Place in Nature, 1860-2000 Richard G. Delisle, 2015-07-14 This text the only one of its kind on the market surveys the development of the field of human evolution from its inception through today It provides students with a broad contrast enabling them to fully understand the value and role of current paleoanthropological research Features An historical approach Establishes for students the nature of paleoanthropology through the historical development of the field from 1860 through 2000 and shows students that paleoanthropology is a remarkably progressive field A focus on the debates in the field of human evolution especially the phylogenetic or genealogical debates Analyzes four distinct debates presented separately from their inception to the present 1 Humankind s place among the primates 2 The place of the australopithecines relative to the human line 3 Debates on human phylogeny proper 4 Proposed scenarios of hominization Presentation and analysis of the viewpoints of over 150 scholars Gives students a valuable reference work for the future includes over 1200 references in the bibliography as well as a comprehensive text for today For junior senior courses in Human Evolution and Paleoanthropology in Anthropology departments Assertiveness in Educational and Pedagogical Strategies for

Discovery ,1929 God—or Gorilla Constance A. Clark,2008-08-04 As scholars debate the most appropriate way to teach evolutionary theory Constance Areson Clark provides an intriguing reflection on similar debates in the not too distant past Set against the backdrop of the Jazz Age God or Gorilla explores the efforts of biologists to explain evolution to a confused and conflicted public during the 1920s Focusing on the use of images and popularization Clark shows how scientists and anti evolutionists deployed schematics cartoons photographs sculptures and paintings to win the battle for public acceptance She uses representative illustrations and popular media accounts of the struggle to reveal how concepts of evolutionary theory changed as they were presented to and absorbed into popular culture Engagingly written and deftly argued God or Gorilla offers original insights into the role of images in communicating and miscommunicating scientific ideas to the lay public Discovery ,1965 A Most Interesting Problem Jeremy DeSilva,2022-11-29 Leading scholars take stock of Darwin s ideas about human evolution in the light of modern science In 1871 Charles Darwin published The Descent of Man a companion to Origin of Species in which he attempted to explain human evolution a topic he called the highest and most interesting problem for the naturalist A Most Interesting Problem brings together twelve world class scholars and science communicators to investigate what Darwin got right and what he got wrong about the origin history and biological variation of humans Edited by Jeremy DeSilva and with an introduction by acclaimed Darwin biographer Janet Browne A Most Interesting Problem draws on the latest discoveries in fields such as genetics paleontology bioarchaeology anthropology and primatology This compelling and accessible book tackles the very subjects Darwin explores in Descent including the evidence for human evolution our place in the family tree the origins of civilization human races and sex differences A Most Interesting Problem is a testament to how scientific ideas are tested and how evidence helps to structure our narratives about human origins showing how some of Darwin's ideas have withstood more than a century of scrutiny while others have not A Most Interesting Problem features contributions by Janet Browne Jeremy DeSilva Holly Dunsworth Agustín Fuentes Ann Gibbons Yohannes Haile Selassie Brian Hare John Hawks Suzana Herculano Houzel Kristina Killgrove Alice Roberts and Michael J.
