Bertrand,2017-01-19 This collection of poetry entitled A Thousand Miles Collected Haiku was inspired by the Chinese philosopher Lao Tzu c 604 BCc 531 BC founding father of Taoism who coined the proverb A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step It was by taking a poetic step every day that I eventually arrived at this collection of one thousand poems While on this journey I sought to explore the internal and external world specifically the world of human nature and physical nature Most of the poems were inspired by experiences gathered within what I have dubbed the Bowl the geographical region between Mount Baker and Mount Rainier the Olympic Peninsula and Cascade Mountains It is a world enriched by the treasures of forest mountain water and sky Here we find the unique flora and fauna that comprises the Pacific Northwest with its unique geography geology history and mythology This undertaking was a journey of mind body and spirit Though my goal was to gather a collection of one thousand poems I set out to simply write one poem each day As has often been said Great things start from humble beginnings Here amon the world of Raven Salmon and Bear beneath the limbs of cedar hemlock and Douglas fir and along the edges of river lake and sea I have found treasures only discovered when we are willing to use the photographers eye These haiku moments are meant to preserve experience and make sense of our world After a while I discovered I am never at a loss for subject matter Poetry surrounds us These poems were carved from cedar found beneath rocks upon beach and observed circling winter sky They were influenced by the teachings in Zen Buddhism as well as Native American oral tradition Along the way I have found if you are willing to look poetry is everywhere I have found poems while driving to work hiking the forest strolling by the neighborhood and gazing out my kitchen window As a result I look forward to the treasures gifted me by each season Lightly I have treaded while on my journey ever conscious of being an unobtrusive observer In the end I have come to the conclusionhow wondrous our world is when we actually take the time to see what surrounds us And so for each mile of the journey a haiku Enjoy Haiku for Every Season

Suzanne Anderson,2015-09-08 This attractive collection features thirty poems written in a form of haiku and beautifully illustrated in dramatic watercolor The beauty of haiku is the poet s ability to use descriptive language to convey poignant experiences in a few syllables Haiku in English is most often written as three lines Tradition calls for seventeen syllables divided into three phrases that include five seven and five sounds In this book the author presents the four seasons and uses the delicate simplicity of poetry to capture ways in which children like writers of haiku are inspired by elements of nature beautiful moments in time and details observed by their senses Readers can expect to find several poems to their liking and will be extremely pleased by the visual drama and imagery presented in each illustration
