History in Transit Dominick LaCapra, 2018-08-06 History in Transit comprises Dominick LaCapra's explorations of relationships he believes have been insufficiently theorized between experience and identity between history and various theories of subjectivity between extreme events and their representation between institutional structures and the kinds of knowledge produced within them Taken together these discussions form a dialogical encounter positing the links among epistemological questions historicist ones and issues pertaining to disciplinary and institutional politics Reacting against the antitheoretical bias of some prominent historians LaCapra presents an alternative model of historiographical practice one in which emphases on plurality and hybridity are combined with the concept of historical experience For LaCapra experience emerges as a category both theoretically determined and anchored in the facticity of the everyday LaCapra tests the assumptions and implications of the way one approaches the past by looking to psychoanalysis to render more self aware the relationship between the historian and his or her material He offers criticisms of assumptions held by practicing historians and theorists placing the study of history at the center of a larger argument about the role of the contemporary university Contesting both corporatization and claims that the university is in ruins LaCapra writes It is paradoxical that the demand to make the university conform to an ever increasing extent to a market or business model seems oblivious to the fact that the American university has probably been the most successful of its type in the world that students from other countries disproportionately desire to study in it

Nietzsche on Time and History Manuel

Dries, 2008-11-06 In 1885 Nietzsche insisted that from now on philosophy was only acceptable as the most general form of history as an attempt somehow to describe Heraclitean becoming and to abbreviate it into signs Taking this remark as a starting point the aim of this volume is to examine the intricate relationship between Nietzsche's philosophy of time and his philosophy of history The questions that arise include What are the new conceptions of time that Nietzsche has to offer What kind of historian was Nietzsche himself What kinds of temporalized histories and historicized philosophies did he write or fail to write This collection of essays written by fourteen academics including eminent figures such as John Richardson Raymond Geuss Lawrence J Hatab and Andrea Orsucci constitute essential reading for specialists of Nietzsche and will also appeal to a larger audience of intellectual historians philosophers and others who are interested in the development of modern thought

Cultural History After Foucault John Neubauer, 2018-01-18 Both as historian and maker of culture Foucault infused numerous disciplines of study with a new conceptual vocabulary and an agenda for future research His ideas have called central assumptions in Western culture into question and altered the ways in which scholars and social scientists approach such issues as discourse theory theory of knowledge Eros technologies of the Self and Other punishment and prisons and asylums and madness The contributors to this volume indicate Foucault's achievements and the suggestive power of his work as well as his methodological weaknesses historical inaccuracies and ambiguities Above all they attempt to show how one can use Foucault to go beyond him in opening new approaches to cultural history Though comprehensiveness was not attempted their essays broach the major controversial aspects of Foucauldian cultural history the position of the subject the fusion of power and knowledge sexuality the historical structures and changes and they explicitly analyze them with respect to antiquity the Renaissance and the nineteenth century In this collection Neubauer presents analyses by historians literary scholars and philosophers of the entire transdisciplinary range of Foucault's oeuvre emphasizing the rich suggestiveness of its agenda The breadth of the undertaking makes it suitable for seminars and graduate courses in numerous departments

Frontiers of Historical Imagination Kerwin Lee Klein, 2023-11-15 The American frontier a potent symbol since Europeans first stepped ashore on North America serves as the touchstone for Kerwin Klein's analysis of the narrating of history Klein explores the traditions through which historians philosophers anthropologists and literary critics have understood the story of America's origin and the way those understandings have shaped and been shaped by changing conceptions of history The American West was once the frontier space where migrating Europe collided with Native America where the historical civilizations of the Old World met the nonhistorical wilds of the New It was not only the cultural combat zone where American democracy was forged but also the ragged edge of History itself where historical and nonhistorical defied and defined each other Klein maintains that the idea of a collision between people with and without history still dominates public memory But the collision he believes resounds even more powerfully in the historical imagination which creates conflicts between narration and knowledge and carries them into the language used to describe the American frontier In Klein's words We remain obscurely entangled in philosophies of history we no longer profess and the very idea of America balances on history's shifting frontiers The American frontier a potent symbol since Europeans first stepped ashore on North America serves as the touchstone for Kerwin Klein's analysis of the narrating of history Klein explores the traditions through which historians philosophers anthropol
