The Girls' History and Culture Reader Miriam Forman-Brunell, Leslie Paris, 2011 Provides scholars instructors and students with the most influential essays that have defined the field of American girls history and culture and addresses topics ranging from diary writing and toys to prostitution and slavery from cover A History of the Hal Roach Studios Richard Lewis Ward, 2006-08-15 Once labeled the lot that laughter built the Hal Roach Studios launched the comedic careers of such screen icons as Harold Lloyd Our Gang and Laurel and Hardy With this stable of stars the Roach enterprise operated for forty six years on the fringes of the Hollywood studio system during a golden age of cinema and gained notoriety as a producer of short comedies independent features and weekly television series Many of its productions are better remembered today than those by its larger contemporaries In A History of the Hal Roach Studios Richard Lewis Ward meticulously follows the timeline of the company's existence from its humble inception in 1914 to its close in 1960 and through both its obscure and famous productions traces its resilience to larger trends in the entertainment business In the first few decades of the twentieth century the motion picture industry was controlled by an elite handful of powerful firms that allowed very little room for new competition outside of their established cartel The few independents that garnered some measure of success despite their outsider status usually did so by specializing in underserved or ignored niche markets Here Ward chronicles how the Roach Studios at the mercy of exclusive distribution practices managed to repeatedly redefine itself in order to survive for nearly a half century in a cutthroat environment Hal Roach's tactic was to nurture talent rather than exhaust it and his star players spent the prime of their careers shooting productions on his lot Even during periods of decline or misdirection the Roach Studios turned out genuinely original material such as the screwball classic Topper 1937 the brutally frank Of Mice and Men 1940 and the silent experiment One Million B.C. 1940 Ward's exploration yields insight into the production and marketing strategies of an organization on the periphery of the theatrical film industry and calls attention to the interconnected nature of the studio system during the classic era The volume also looks to the early days of television when the prolific Roach Studios embraced the new medium to become for a time the premier telefilm producer Aided by a comprehensive filmography and twenty seven illustrations A History of the Hal Roach Studios recounts an overlooked chapter in American cinema not only detailing the business operations of Roach's productions but also exposing the intricate workings of Hollywood's rivalrous moviemaking establishment A History of Flint Medical College, 1889-1911 Desha Rhodes, 2007 After the Civil War black people in the New Orleans region did not have adequate medical care causing a health care crisis which lasted for almost two decades In 1889 an institution emerged in response to this emergency New Orleans University a Methodist Episcopal Church school opened a medical department which would later become Flint Medical College Flint was born of the missionary fervor of the Methodist Episcopal Church Although constantly facing the obstacle of chronic financial difficulty the medical school grew and in 1901 to honor its benefactor businessman John D. Flint the university changed the name of the school to Flint Medical College In spite of positive development by 1905 advances in medical knowledge and practices threatened the adequacy of Flint's program By 1906 Flint was struggling academically and needed better clinical facilities Finally faced with challenges it was unable to meet in August 1911 the university announced the closing of Flint Medical College Diverse elements combined to end Flint's existence in 1911 but it was not a failure This institution provided the foundation for organized health care for black people in the New Orleans area and signified a triumph of black self-determination underwritten by Christian missionary fervor History Of Chartered Surveyors In Singapore, The: The First Hundred Years: 1868 - 1968 William James Jones, 2023-03-21 There is a rich history of achievements by Chartered Surveyors in Singapore going back as far as the 1880s Their stories have largely gone untold This book tells the stories of individual Chartered Surveyors in Singapore over the first hundred years since the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors was founded 1868 to 1968 and explains the role they played in the development of Singapore The book also includes the stories of the pioneer Singaporean Chartered Surveyors from the 1940s onwards many of whom studied overseas but returned to Singapore where they would play important roles in the real estate industry over future decades Related Links The Routledge Companion to History and the Moving Image Marnie Hughes-Warrington, Kim Nelson, Mia E.M. Treacey, 2023-11-07 The Routledge Companion to History and the Moving Image takes an interdisciplinary approach to understanding history in moving images It engages this popular and dynamic field that has evolved rapidly from film and television to digital streaming into the age of user-created content The volume addresses moving image history through a theoretical lens modes and genres representation race and identity and evolving forms and formats It brings together a range of scholars from across the globe who specialize in film and media studies cultural studies history philosophy of history and education Together the chapters provide a necessary contemporary analysis that covers new developments and questions that arise from the shift to digital screen culture The book examines technological and ethical concerns stemming from today s media landscape but it also considers the artificial construction of the boundaries between professional expertise and amateur production Each contributor s unique approach highlights the necessity of engaging with moving images for the academic discipline of history The collection written for a global audience offers accessible discussions of historiography and a compelling resource for advanced undergraduates and postgraduates in history film and media studies and communications Both Chapter 17 and the Afterword of this book are freely available as downloadable Open Access PDFs at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

A History of Family Planning in Twentieth-Century Peru Raúl Necochea López, 2014-10-15 Adding to the burgeoning study of medicine and science in Latin America this important book offers a comprehensive historical perspective on the highly contentious issues of sexual and reproductive health in an important Andean nation Raúl Necochea López approaches family planning as a historical phenomenon layered with medical social economic and moral implications At stake in this complex mix were new notions of individual autonomy the future of gender relations and national prosperity The implementation of Peru's first family planning programs led to a rapid professionalization of fertility control Complicating the evolution of associated medical services were the conflicting agendas of ordinary citizens power brokers from governmental and military sectors clergy and international health groups While family planning promised a greater degree of control over individuals intimate lives as well as opportunities for economic improvement through the effective management of birth rates the success of attempts to regulate fertility was far from assured Today Necochea Lopez observes although the quality of family planning resources in Peru has improved services remain far from equitably available

Reframing the Past Mia E. M. Treacey, 2016-02-26 Reframing the Past traces what historians have written about film and television from 1898 until the early 2000s Mia Treacey argues that historical engagement with film and television should be reconceptualised as Screened History an interdisciplinary international field of research to incorporate and replace what has been known as History and Film It draws from the fields of Film Television and Cultural Studies to critically analyse key works and connect past scholarship with contemporary research Reconsidered as Screened History the works of Pierre Sorlin Marc Ferro John O Connor Robert Rosenstone and Robert Toplin are explored alongside lesser known but equally important contributions This book identifies a number of common themes and ideas that have been explored by historians for decades the use of history on film and television as a way to teach the past the challenge of filmic and televisual history to more traditional historiography and an ongoing battle to find an appropriate historical way to engage with Film Studies and Theory Screened History offers an approach to exploring History Film and Television that allows room for future developments while connecting them to a rich and diverse body of past scholarship Combining a narrative of historical research on film and television over the past century with a reconceptualisation of the field as Screened History Reframing the Past is essential reading both for established scholars of History and Film Film History and other related disciplines and to students new to the field

A Subaltern History of the Indian Diaspora in Singapore John Solomon, 2016-03-31 Untouchable migrants made up a substantial proportion of Indian labour migration into Singapore in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries During this period they were subject to forms of caste prejudice and discrimination that powerfully reinforced their identities as untouchables overseas Today however untouchability has disappeared from the public sphere and has been replaced by other notions of identity leaving unanswered questions as to how and when this occurred The untouchable migrant is also largely absent from popular narratives of the past This book takes the disappearance as a starting point to examine a history of untouchable migration amongst Indians who arrived in Singapore from its modern founding as a British colony in the early nineteenth century through to its independence in 1965 Using oral history records archival sources colonial ethnography newspapers and interviews this book examines the lives of untouchable migrants through their everyday experience in an overseas multi ethnic environment It examines how these migrants who in many ways occupied the bottom rungs of their communities and colonial society framed transnational issues of identity and social justice in relation to their experiences within the broader Indian diaspora in Singapore. The book traces the manner in which untouchable identities evolved and then receded in response to the dramatic social changes brought about by colonialism, war, and post-colonial nationhood. By focusing on a subaltern group from the past, this study provides an alternative history of Indian migration to Singapore and a different perspective on the cultural conversations that have taken place between India and Singapore for much of the island's modern history.

This important volume addresses a number of central topics concerning how history is depicted in film. In the preface, the volume editors emphasize the importance of using film in teaching history: students will see historical films and if they are not taught critical viewing, they will be inclined simply to accept what they see as fact. Authors of the individual chapters then explore the portrayal of history and the uses of history in specific films and film genres. Robert Rosenstone's In Praise of the Biopic considers such films as Reds, They Died with Their Boots On, Little Big Man, Seabiscuit, Cinderella Man, and The Grapes of Wrath. In his chapter, Geoff Pingree focuses on the big questions posed in Jay Rosenblatt's 1998 film Human Remains. Richard Francaviglia's chapter on films about the Middle East is especially timely in the post-9/11 world. One chapter by Daniel A. Nathan, Peter Berg, and Erin Klemyk is devoted to a single film, Martin Scorsese's urban history The Gangs of New York, which the authors see as a way of exploring complex themes of the immigrant experience. Finally, Robert Brent Toplin addresses the paradox of using an art form, film, to present history. Among other themes, he considers the impact of Patton and Platoon on military decisions and interpretations, and of Birth of a Nation and Glory on race relations. The cumulative effect is to increase the reader's understanding of the medium of film in portraying history and to stimulate the imagination as to how it can and how it should not be used. Students and teachers of history and cinema will benefit deeply from this informative and thoughtful discussion.

Other chapters outline the evolution of national cinemas around the world, the varied and distinctive filmic traditions that have developed alongside Hollywood. A unique aspect of the book are the special inset features on the film makers and personalities: Garbo and Godard, Keaton and Kurosawa, Bugs Bunny and Bergman, who have had an enduring impact in popular memory and cinematic lore.
