Kayser and Scott have written an excellent manual for mental health practitioners who care for women with cancer. To provide the best treatment for women and couples living with cancer, it is imperative for the therapist to have a thorough understanding of medical treatments as well as normal responses to the experience. Readers of this well-written, thoughtful and practical book will have both Hester Hill Schnipper, LICSW, BCD, OSW, C, Chief, Oncology Social Work, BIDMC, Author, After Breast Cancer: A Commonsense Guide to Life After Treatment. Close relationships can be vital to a woman's recovery from breast or gynecological cancer, and the myriad stressors that accompany diagnosis and treatment. Helping Couples Cope with Women's Cancer shows readers not only how to enlist the patient's closest support person in coping with the disease, but also to help that partner with the stressors such as feelings of inadequacy and loss that so often come with the role. The authors, established experts on their subject, recognize the challenges couples face, the central role of communication in coping, and the individuality of each patient and couple. In addition to proven intervention techniques and helpful assessment tools, the book features case illustrations, What to do if sections, sociocultural considerations, and suggestions for when the patient's caregiver is not her partner. Key areas of coverage include: Assessment, quality of life, impact of illness, family resources, Balancing work, family, self-care, and the demands of illness, Cognitive coping, relaxation, stress reduction, Body image, sexuality, and intimacy, Helping children cope, developmental guidelines, Transitions, goal setting, life after cancer, facing recurrence or terminal illness. The skills and insights contained in Helping Couples Cope with Women's Cancers will benefit a range of health and mental health practitioners, including counselors, social workers, clinical psychologists, psychiatrists, and nurses. Graduate students planning a career in health psychology or couples therapy should also find it a valuable resource.

Climbing the Mountain Paul Stoller, Mitchel Stoller, 2015-11-28. You have cancer. Three words that will change your life forever. The diagnosis is often followed by surgery, chemotherapy, radiation therapy, and many other stress-inducing treatments. Your future will seem like an insurmountable mountain. John, a 50-year-old corporate lawyer, found himself facing this exact situation when he was diagnosed with a low-grade follicular lymphoma. But John was determined to win his fight. Doing research on how to cope with cancer, he found a way to cope with it and is now in long-term remission. Using his story, the authors provide a guide to climbing that mountain. They show how using preparation, research, practice, exercise, and activity, and a variety of social supports to live well within the parameters that cancer imposes can help you deal with the disease. They consider how to cope with the stresses and strains of diagnosis, first treatment, short-term remission, second treatment, long-term remission, and palliative care. In particular, the authors stress the important relationship between exercise, activity, and well-being.

Jackson,2015-10-02 The relationship between traditional myths fairytales and current fiction novels featuring women as crime solvers is examined in this critical study Using theories from Joseph Campbell C G Jung and others the author asserts that plots and imagery in these novels conform to quest narratives outlined in classical myths and traditional fairytales Narcissus Medusa Orpheus and Orestes are a few of the figures emerging in today s mystery fiction Among the mystery authors discussed are Patricia Cornwell Amanda Cross Sue Grafton P D James Sara Paretsky and Julie Smith After establishing the anatomy of a mystery the text discusses many myths rituals and rites associated with mysteries including myths of identity religion and rites of initiation Women's Rites Diann L. Berger,2011-03-08 In this new approach to understanding the impact of grief Susan A Berger goes beyond the commonly held theories of stages of grief with a new typology for self awareness and personal growth She offers practical advice for healing from a major loss in this presentation of five basic ways or types of grieving These five types describe how different people respond to a major loss The types are Nomads who have not yet resolved their grief and don t often understand how their loss has affected their lives Memorialists who are committed to preserving the memory of their loved ones by creating concrete memorials and rituals to honor them Normalizers who are committed to re creating a sense of family and community Activists who focus on helping other people who are dealing with the same disease or issues that caused their loved one s death Seekers who adopt religious philosophical or spiritual beliefs to create meaning in their lives Drawing on research results and anecdotes from working with the bereaved over the past ten years Berger examines how a person s worldview is affected after a major loss

According to her findings people experience significant changes in their sense of mortality their values and priorities their perception of and orientation toward time and the manner in which they fit in society The five types of grieving she finds reflect the choices people make in their efforts to adapt to dramatic life changes By identifying with one of the types readers who have suffered a recent loss or whose lives have been shaped by an early loss find ways of understanding the impact of the loss and of living more fully
