Riverside The Heritage The People And The Vision:

Riverside Ruth Austen,1996 The ^AOxford Handbook of Public Heritage Theory and Practice Angela M. Labrador,Neil Asher Silberman,2018-07-11 The Oxford Handbook of Public Heritage Theory and Practice charts some of the major sites of convergence between the humanities and the social sciences where new disciplinary perspectives are being brought to bear on the field of cultural heritage These convergences have the potential to provide the interdisciplinary expertise needed not only to critique but also to achieve the intertwined intellectual political and socioeconomic goals of cultural heritage in the twenty first century Heritage, Conservation and Communities Gill Chitty,2016-12-01 Public participation and local community involvement have taken centre stage in heritage practice in recent decades In contrast with this established position in wider heritage work public engagement with conservation practice is less well developed The focus here is on conservation as the practical care of material cultural heritage with all its associated significance for local people How can we be more successful in building capacity for local ownership and leadership of heritage conservation projects as well as improving participative involvement in decisions and in practice This book presents current research and practice in community led conservation It illustrates that outcomes of locally led active participation show demonstrable social educational and personal benefits for participants Bringing together UK and international case studies the book combines analysis of theoretical and applied approaches exploring the lived experiences of conservation projects in and with different communities Responding to the need for deeper understanding of the outcomes of heritage conservation it examines the engagement of local people and communities beyond the expert and specialist domain Highlighting the advances in this important aspect of contemporary heritage practice this book is a key resource for practitioners in heritage studies conservation and heritage management It is also relevant for the practising professional student or university researcher in an emerging field that overarches professional and academic practice California Real Estate Magazine ,1951 The Vikings Reimagined Tom Birkett,Roderick Dale,2020-01-20 The Vikings Reimagined explores the changing perception of Norse and Viking cultures across different cultural forms and the complex legacy of the Vikings in the present day Bringing together experts in literature history and heritage engagement this highly interdisciplinary collection aims to reconsider the impact of the discipline of Old Norse Viking Studies outside the academy and to broaden our understanding of the ways in which the material and textual remains of the Viking Age are given new meanings in the present The diverse collection draws attention to the many roles that the Vikings play across contemporary culture from the importance of Viking tourism to the role of Norse sub cultures in the formation of local and international identities Together these collected essays challenge the academy to rethink its engagement with popular reiterations of the Vikings and to reassess the position afforded to reception within the discipline Visions ,1993 The Rich Heritage of Quakerism Walter R. Williams,2019-01-13 In this book which was first published in 1962 Walter R Williams presents a picture of the courage faith

devotion and sacrifice that have been displayed throughout the history of Quakerism Biographical sketches of Quaker leaders challenge the reader to Christian integrity and selfless service The principles of Quakerism and their influence on society are evident in this carefully researched history of the movement Comprehensive Management Plan for the Southwestern Pennsylvania Heritage Preservation Commission ,1992 The Imperial Church Katherine D. Moran,2020-05-15 Through a fascinating discussion of religion s role in the rhetoric of American civilizing empire The Imperial Church undertakes an exploration of how Catholic mission histories served as a useful reference for Americans narrating US settler colonialism on the North American continent and seeking to extend military political and cultural power around the world Katherine D Moran traces historical celebrations of Catholic missionary histories in the upper Midwest Southern California and the US colonial Philippines to demonstrate the improbable centrality of the Catholic missions to ostensibly Protestant imperial endeavors Moran shows that as the United States built its continental and global dominion and an empire of production and commerce in the Gilded Age and Progressive Era Protestant and Catholic Americans began to celebrate Catholic imperial pasts She demonstrates that American Protestants joined their Catholic compatriots in speaking with admiration about historical Catholic missionaries the Jesuit Jacques Marquette in the Midwest the Franciscan Jun pero Serra in Southern California and the Spanish friars in the Philippines Comparing them favorably to the Puritans Pilgrims and the American Revolutionary generation commemorators drew these missionaries into a cross confessional pantheon of US national and imperial founding fathers In the process they cast Catholic missionaries as gentle and effective agents of conquest uplift and economic growth arguing that they could serve as both origins and models for an American civilizing empire The Imperial Church connects Catholic history and the history of US empire by demonstrating that the religious dimensions of American imperial rhetoric have been as cross confessional as the imperial nation itself Urban waterfronts and cultural heritage Dimitra Babalis,Tim G. Townshend,2018-03-07 Approaches to urban waterfront conservation have been much debated in recent decades Early schemes focused on leisure and commercial exploitation more recently greater attention has been paid to environmental and ecological conditions historic preservation and human well being But how do we balance these competing interests and yet ensure sustainable change preserve identity and yet allow for new development And how do we involve local people This book aims to provide some answers to these important questions The book is divided into three parts Part One is an overview for regeneration and awareness of historic waterfronts Part Two argues for the sustainable reuse of important sites to preserve their special identity Part Three shows the importance of introducing young researchers to the complexities of designing waterfronts for sustainable lifestyles Hispanic Journal of Behavioral Sciences ,1999 Kentucky's Cookbook Heritage John van Willigen,2014-11-12 A Southern historian combs through Kentucky cookbooks from the mid nineteenth century through the twentieth to reveal a fascinating cultural narrative In Kentucky s Cookbook Heritage John van Willigen explores the Bluegrass State s cultural and culinary history through the rich material found in regional cookbooks He begins in 1839 with Lettice Bryan's The Kentucky Housewife which includes pre Civil War recipes intended for use by a household staff instead of an individual cook along with instructions for serving the family Van Willigen also shares the story of the original Aunt Jemima the advertising persona of Nancy Green born in Montgomery County Kentucky who was one of many African American voices in Kentucky culinary history Kentucky's Cookbook Heritage is a journey through the history of the commonwealth showcasing the shifting attitudes and innovations of the times Analyzing the historical importance of a wide range of publications from the nonprofit and charity cookbooks that flourished at the end of the twentieth century to the contemporary cookbook that emphasizes local ingredients van Willigen provides a valuable perspective on the state's social history [IKUWA6. Convent Stuart Kells, 2020-03-03 What was behind the wall and the wire The local people knew fine courtyards an old swimming pool dilapidated tennis courts and a remnant garden now wild and sprawling The Abbotsford Convent was this haunted place left to languish for years after the last of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd had gone In its prime it had been a school a refuge a retreat a workhouse and a prison the single largest charitable institution in the southern hemisphere In the late 1990s a proposed high density development threatened the idyllic riverside location sparking outrage in the local community and further afield Years of protesting negotiating and fundraising followed and the convent now on Australia's National Heritage List has started a new life as a vibrant centre for art and culture The Convent A City Finds its Heart tells the story of the site's rich history and the efforts to preserve it It is an uplifting tale of community activism a tangible reminder that the magic of the past can endure and what people power can achieve
