Driving Lessons J. Peter Rothe, 2002-09-20 With the exception of modern warfare no other human activity has destroyed as many lives as driving a motor vehicle Traffic crashes kill and injure thousands of Canadians every year at an incalculable financial and emotional cost to society but rather than rush to stem this tide of human carnage policy makers seem to accept the ghastly toll as the price we pay for mobility Driving Lessons takes a fresh look at the complexities of the road transportation system in depth going far beyond the symptomatic linear reductionist approach It challenges current traffic safety paradigms that simply blame the driver or target villains and scapegoats like impaired or high risk drivers It takes issue with road transportation system management that sometimes puts mobility ahead of the safety of road users As one researcher notes human beings will make mistakes and accordingly the road transportation system must be designed so that people's mistakes do not have disastrous consequences

Reconnecting Culture, Technology and Nature Mike Michael, 2012-10-12 In this exciting new book Mike Michael uses case studies of mundane technologies such as the walking boot the car and the TV remote control to question some of the fundamental dichotomies through which we make sense of the world Drawing on the insights of Bruno Latour Donna Haraway and Michel Serres the author elaborates an innovative methodology through which new hybrid objects of study are creatively constructed tracing the ways in which the cultural the natural and the technological interweave in the production of order and disorder This book critically engages with and draws connections between a wide range of literature including those concerned with the environment consumption and the body
