Servitization in Industry Gunter Lay,2014-06-13 This book summarizes the interim result of the servitization activities in manufacturing industries While the early literature on servitization tended to stress only its advantages more recently scholars have also started to refer to the challenges associated with servitization This book attempts to give a balanced picture of servitization The book is structured in four parts Part I introduces the topic by presenting the most recent academic discussion about servitization and uses an empirical analysis to show the degree of servitization across Europe The results of this analysis are then compared to the discussion in the literature This comparison highlights the existing discrepancies between the rather euphoric literature and the more skeptical practical experience The second and third parts attempt to explain these discrepancies by taking as a starting point the assumption that servitization recommendations have to consider the heterogeneity of the manufacturing sector and the capabilities of the provider Part II presents articles which analyze the specific characteristics of different sectors with their barriers and potentials and presents frameworks for a successful servitization of the core sectors in European manufacturing industries which include e g aeronautics automotive ICT chemical industries pulp and paper industries and different engineering sectors Part III focuses on companies capabilities which are necessary for successful servitization These include strategic management marketing organization innovation engineering human resources controlling quality and networks All the contributions in parts II and III add up to a detailed picture of servitization for sectors and functions and indicate the practical implications for enterprises in manufacturing industries The fourth part concludes the book with a chapter summarizing the findings and giving an outlook of servitization in manufacturing industries its challenges and future developments

Chemicals without Harm Ken Geiser,2015-06-19 A proposal for a new chemicals strategy that we work to develop safer alternatives to hazardous chemicals rather than focusing exclusively on controlling them Today there are thousands of synthetic chemicals used to make our clothing cosmetics household products electronic devices even our children s toys Many of these chemicals help us live longer and more comfortable lives but some of these highly useful chemicals are also persistent toxic and dangerous to our health and the environment For fifty years the conventional approach to hazardous chemicals has focused on regulation barriers and protection In Chemicals without Harm Ken Geiser proposes a different strategy based on developing and adopting safer alternatives to hazardous chemicals rather than focusing exclusively on controlling them Geiser reviews past government policies focused on controlling chemicals describes government initiatives outside the United States that have begun to implement a more sustainable chemical policy and offers an overview of the chemicals industry and market He develops a safer chemicals policy framework that includes processes for characterizing classifying and prioritizing chemicals generating and using new chemical information and promoting transitions to safer chemicals The shift in strategy described by Geiser will require broad changes in science the chemicals economy and government policy Geiser shows that it is already beginning identifying an emerging movement of scientists corporate managers environmental activists and government leaders who are fashioning a new twenty first century approach to chemicals
