Why International Cooperation is Failing

Thomas Kalinowski,2019-09-18 Since the global financial crisis of 2008 09 international cooperation has failed to curb volatile financial markets Changes in the global rules of finance discussed in the G20 during the last decade remain limited and it is uncertain whether they are suitable to help mitigate and manage future crises to come This book offers an alternative to the popular notion that this failure is the result of the nature of the international system the clash of national egoisms or lack of leadership It instead investigates problems of international cooperation by looking at their deeper structural origins in the competition of different models of capitalism US finance led EU integration led and East Asian state led capitalism complement each other globally but have conflicting preferences on how to regulate international finance This interdependence of capitalist models is relatively stable but also prone to crises caused by volatile financial flows global economic imbalances and currency wars By bringing together approaches from International Political Economy and Comparative Capitalism this book shows that regulating international finance is not a technocratic exercise of fine tuning the machinery of international institutions but rather a political process International cooperation can only be successful if it goes hand in hand with deep domestic changes in each of these capitalist models

Circular Economy and Green Transition in the Global South Anwesha

Borthakur,Pardeep Singh,2025-09-26 This book is an attempt to address circular economy and green transition potentials and implications with a particular focus on the Global South Circular economy and green transition have been central themes of environmental policymaking during the recent decades both in the Global North and the Global South However the focus and attention on the topics among the research community have been relatively recent in the emerging economies and developing countries in the Global South The term circular economy refers to an economic model that aims to minimize waste make the most of resources and promote sustainability throughout the entire lifecycle of products and materials Unlike the traditional linear economy which follows a take make dispose pattern the circular economy seeks to create a closed loop system where resources are reused and recycled The term green transition on the other hand refers to a comprehensive and systemic shift from an economy that heavily relies on fossil fuels and environmentally destructive practices to one that is sustainable eco friendly and focused on addressing global climate change implications Green transition is often considered as a critical approach to achieve a sustainable future and mitigate the adverse impacts of climate change Circular economy and the green transition are complementary approaches that when integrated can lead to a robust sustainable global economy Both concepts acknowledge the interconnectedness of environmental economic and social facets and highlight the significance of a systematized change to achieve a better future We can consider circular economy as a subset of green transition where both share the overarching goal of fostering sustainability and mitigating detrimental environmental impacts
