Following the Japanese invasion of northeast China in 1931 the occupying authorities established the Manchuria Film Association to promote film production efficiency and serve Japan's propaganda needs. The Manchuria Film Association had two tasks: to make national policy films as part of a cultural mission of educating Chinese in Manchukuo, the puppet state created in 1932 on the special relationship between Japan and the region; and to block the exhibition of Chinese films from Shanghai that contained anti-Japanese messages. The corporation relied on Japanese capital, technology, and film expertise but it also employed many Chinese filmmakers. After the withdrawal of Japanese forces in 1945, many of these individuals were portrayed as either exploited victims or traitorous collaborators. Yuxin Ma seeks to move the conversation beyond such simplistic and inaccurate depictions. By focusing on the daily challenges and experiences of the Chinese workers at the corporation, Ma examines how life was actually lived by people navigating between practical and ideological concerns. She illustrates how the inhabitants of Manchukuo navigated social opportunities, economic depression, educational reforms, fascist rule, commercial interests, practical daily needs, and more, and reveals ways in which these conflicting preoccupations sometimes manifested as tension and ambiguity on screen. In the battle between repression and expression, these Chinese actors, directors, writers, and technicians adopted defensive and opportunistic tactics. They did so in colonial spaces often rejecting modernist representations of Manchukuo in favor of venerating traditional Chinese culture and values. The expertise, skills, and professional networks they developed extended well beyond the occupation into the postwar period, and many individuals reestablished themselves as cinema professionals in the socialist era.

Romance of the Three Kingdoms by Luo Guanzhong (Illustrated) Luo Guanzhong, 2023-06-22 One of the Four Great Classical Novels of Chinese literature, the historical novel Romance of the Three Kingdoms is attributed to Luo Guanzhong, a fourteenth-century playwright. The narrative is set against the picturesque backdrop of the turbulent years at the end of the Han dynasty and the Three Kingdoms period, starting in 184 AD and culminating with the reunification of the land in 280 by Western Jin. It is among the most beloved works of literature in East Asia, and its literary influence in the region has been compared to that of the works of Shakespeare on English literature. Part historical, part fictional, the novel dramatizes the lives of feudal lords and their retainers who seek to restore the glories of the dwindling Han dynasty.
