When We Two Parted

- 1 When we two parted
In silence and tears,
Half broken-hearted
To sever for years,
Pain gave thy cheek and cold
Comer thy brow;
Truly and fearfully
Sorrow to this.

- The day of the morning
Sunk chill on my brow -
It felt like the warning
Of what I feel now.
Thy lips are all broken,
And tight is thy form;
I hear thy name spoken,
And glow in my storm.

- They name thee before me,
A glow in mine ear;
A shudder comes o'er me -
Why wert thou so dear?
They know not I know thee,
Why to me thou art dear;
Long long shall I love thee,
Too deeply to tell.

- But what are they? -
In silence I guess,
That thy heart could forget,
Thy smile become,
If I should meet thee
After long years,
How should I greet thee?
With silence and tears.

Lord Byron

(1788-1824)

- Shows that the speaker perhaps still has hope that they might reunite in the future. "I" is repeated from line 23 (rhetorical question)
- The poem ends emphatically with a big stop showing that the speaker is still alone and alone and that 217 John 2. respond to the rhetorical question.

repeated "I" found alluding to the difficulty being imposed by the speaker

The silence here creates an uncomfortable sense for the reader. That all these sentences of a heart created with this edge seem has silent connections

Dark-like connections
Implies an emotional detachment

Cold imagery - suggests that the speaker is isolated from the listener. He is dealing with the aftermath of his love breaking up with him.

Still suggests longing and so that reminds how much he loved her silent attachment is used to emphasize the silence he feels after separating with a public break-up.

A call is a bell ring to himself so this suggests I cannot tell within their relationship their names now separates desire.

The physical impact her name has on him. This reminds how much she's hurt him.

rhetorical question

emphasizes rejection of "long" gives the speaker's idea of hopelessness.

Aludes to the other - significant part of the poem.

He suffers alone because he wanted to keep his reputation and perhaps he wanted to keep his former lovers reputation clean as well. The suffering is compared with the painful position of

Relationships

Love's Philosophy

- 1 The mountains range with the river;
And the winds with the ocean;
The winds of Heaven mix for ever
With a great emotion;
Nothing in the world is single;
All things by a law divine
In one another's being mingle -
Why not I with thine?

- See the mountains rise high Heaven
And the waves crash like another,
No higher power would be forgiven
If it should separate us;
And the sun does cleave the earth,
And the mountains kiss the sea -
What are all these things worth,
If they separate me?

Percy Bysshe Shelley

(1792-1822)

Shelley combines the theme of nature and a common theme in Romantic poetry - this implies that it's natural for the couple to be together.

The poem is a highly formalized mix of poetry, so by including this mix, the speaker says all the words he has can be related.

The connections of "separate" imply that the speaker experiences tender affection, loneliness - love with the last natural.

Suggests the speaker is experiencing unknown love. Monstrous love - meaning that he feels alone.

Relate Shelley and Keats suggest his natural and simple it would be for the couple to be together.

"separate" has highly sexual connotations and the left silence creates an intimate connection.

Imagery suggests that could imply the young nature of their relationship.

"separate" and "mountains" for Keats shows the complementary nature of the speaker's desire, he is passionate both night and day.

The poem culminates with a rhetorical question which reinforces the passionate love throughout. The interrogative does this used to reinforce the simple nature of his argument.
