DROP SHADOWS

Drop shadows are a popular tool for increasing letter readability by making the background the color inside the letters and the text itself a color darker or lighter to increase the background contrast with the current letters. A drop shadow can also be a useful way to make text more legible on your slides.

The drop shadow for your slides will be soft, almost blending around each letter. When done correctly, the reader can see the text backgrounds, yet still notice a clear difference in legibility.

Here are some tips to consider when using drop shadows:

- If drop shadows should be used, it should only be used when needed. Drop shadows are not always necessary.
- Adjust your slides' drop shadow color to match the background. The color should be a darker or lighter shade of the background color to make the text more legible.
- If you're using a drop shadow, the shadow should be a darker shade of the background color. Drop shadows should be a darker shade of the background color.
- If you're using a drop shadow, the shadow should be a darker shade of the background color.
- If you're using a drop shadow, the shadow should be a darker shade of the background color.
- If you're using a drop shadow, the shadow should be a darker shade of the background color.
