Accountability in Social Research Norma Romm,2007-05-08 In this book I have concentrated on drawing attention to various conceptions of accountability that might be brought to bear in judging the practice of social research Much of the book is organized around making explicit the assumptions that influence what counts as proper research in society including assumptions about how social inquirers might be held accountable My focus is on reviewing discourses around the practice of professional inquiry with a view to reconsidering the way in which people create expectations for accountable social inquiry My focus hereon is related to my concern that the manner in which judgments about researchers accountability are made is not without social consequences for our way of living in society I have approached the issues by beginning with a discussion of tenets of the position called positivism so named by certain proponents and by considering the view on accountability that is implied by adherence to these tenets Briefly expressed positivist argumentation suggests that researchers are required to do science in a manner that warrants their being considered indeed scientists I use my discussion of accountability as seen within positivist argumentation to explicate ways in which alternative positions have arisen as ways of treating accountability issues Through my way of comparing the various positions I hope to provide some indication of the complexity of ethical and accountability issues in social inquiry disrupts global and local knowledge hierarchies Critique is deployed by educational actors in their everyday engagement in transnational education to stage dissensus which constantly re draws the lines of possibility for knowledge co construction A matrix mapping system is designed to chart and theorise the Chilean educational actors critiques along the trail of concept translation learning application and innovation of knowledge hierarchies which operate at and across global transnational local and the newly created local global levels This book examines how these critiques modulate the ascendancy of knowledge hierarchies to enfranchise non western educational actors for theoretical knowledge production that addresses local needs Knowledge Hierarchies in Transnational Education will be of key value to researchers academics and postgraduate students in the fields of international education teacher education and globalisation The Routledge Handbook of Strategic Communication Derina Holtzhausen,Ansgar Zerfass,2014-11-20 The Routledge Handbook of Strategic Communication provides a comprehensive review of research in the strategic communication domain and offers educators and graduate level students a compilation of approaches to and studies of varying aspects of the field The volume provides insights into ongoing discussions that build an emerging body of knowledge Focusing on the metatheoretical philosophical and applied aspects of strategic communication the parts of the volume cover Conceptual foundations Institutional and organizational dimensions Implementing strategic communication and Domains of practice An international set of authors contributes to this volume illustrating the broad arena in which this work is taking place A timely volume surveying the current state of scholarship this Handbook is essential reading for scholars in strategic communication at all levels of experience Respect and Criminal Justice The Shaw Foundation Fellow in Law Gabrielle Watson,2019-12-31 Respect and Criminal Justice offers the first sustained examination of respect in criminal justice in England and Wales where the value is elusive but of persisting significance Advancing a critique of the respect deficit in policing and imprisonment the book is concerned with the ways in which both institutions are merely constrained and not characterised by respect It emerges that they appeal to the word respect relying on its0inclusive ethos in official discourse when it is expedient to do so but rarely and only superficially address the prior question of what it is to respect and be respected The result is that respect is more akin to a slogan than a foundational value of criminal justice practice 0The book will be of interest to academics and students across the humanities and social sciences and especially in law criminal justice and philosophy as well as criminal justice practitioners and policymakers Ethnographic Inquiry and Lived Experience Wing-Chung Ho,2019-01-15 Ho addresses two fundamental theoretical questions about how best to practice ethnographic inquiries to obtain qualitative experience near and shareable accounts of human living The first question is regarding the epistemology of ethnography Ho posits that writing is epistemologically prior to the researcher s fieldwork experience in the production of ethnographic knowledge This stance is developed using the theories of hermeneutics put forward by Paul Ricoeur and Hans Georg Gadamer who both consider that once a text is produced its meaning is dissociated from the intention of the author The second question is what is the putative object that the ethnographer writes about Ho argues that lived experience Erlebnis offers such an ethnographic object Since the lived experience that an ethnographer experiences during fieldwork cannot be studied directly further theorizations of lived experience are necessary Ho underscores both the non discursivity and transcendence of lived experience in the lifeworld and the way power is clandestinely imbued in everyday life in shaping subjectivity and practice This theorization brings together Alfred Schutz s lifeworld theory and Michel Foucault s power knowledge nexus The result is a general theory of experience that is pertinent for ethnographic inquiries By addressing these two fundamental questions and offering novel angles from which to answer them this book offers refreshed epistemological guidelines for conducting ethnographic research for scientific reasoning More importantly this book also provides a crucial knowledge base for comprehending the current epistemological debates inherent in the production of ethnographic knowledge and furthering discussions in the field
