Environmental Performance Reviews Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development,2003 This review of the Netherlands environmental conditions and policies evaluates progress in reducing the pollution burden improving natural resource management integrating environmental and economic policies and strengthening international co operation The analyses presented are supported by a broad range of economic and environmental data OECD Environmental Performance Reviews Oecd,Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development,2015-11-30 Long recognised as a forerunner in environmental policy the Netherlands has continued to make important strides in dealing with environmental pressures in what is a very densely populated country with the sixth largest economy in the euro area In the context of modest growth over 2000-14 it managed to decouple greenhouse gas emissions all major pollutants and waste generation from economic activity Yet the Netherlands still has the fifth highest share of fossil fuels in its energy mix among OECD countries and around 95% of habitat types and 75% of species are considered threatened The country needs therefore to push the frontier of environmental policy even further and in innovative ways to maintain growth while ensuring conservation and sustainable use of environmental assets This third OECD Environmental Performance Review of the Netherlands assesses the country's progress in achieving its environmental policy objectives since the last review carried out in 2003 It identifies what is working well and what can be improved providing 29 recommendations to help green the economy and improve environmental governance and management The current drive to modernise environmental policy provides an opportunity for the Netherlands to build on the impressive progress already made in streamlining environmental legislation regulations and permits The modernisation effort explores new ways of working with the private sector and civil society such as in the promising Green Deals programme OECD Environmental Performance Reviews: Poland 2015 OECD,2015-04-23 This report is the third OECD review of Poland's environmental performance It evaluates progress towards sustainable development and green growth with a focus on forestry and biodiversity as well as waste and materials management

Achieving Sustainable Development Hans T. Bressers, Walter A. Rosenbaum, 2003-12-30. Bressers, Rosenbaum and their contributors analyze what until recently has been among the least examined issues implicit in the growing global discourse about sustainable development: the creation of institutions and processes for effective governance of sustainability policies. The creation and endurance of governance institutions capable of implementing sustainability policies is in fact fundamental for any viable conception of sustainable development. The analyses focus not only on how societies can organize but on how they do organize to overcome such daunting obstacles in the Netherlands, the Northwest United States, Costa Rica, Madagascar, Senegal, and the European Union. The writers focus particularly upon the special problem embedded in the sustainability paradigm: that of organizing governance across scales that is to say across and between geographic, political, ecological, or other social levels in a sustainable regime. In recent years, the scale problem has emerged as a major and enlarging concern as international efforts proliferate to implement various sorts of sustainability policies. The analyses focus not only on how societies can organize but on how they do organize to overcome such daunting obstacles. The analyses place considerable emphasis upon the history and lessons to be learned from ongoing efforts to achieve such governance in several diverse international settings, including the Netherlands, the Northwest United States, Costa Rica, Madagascar, Senegal, and the European Union. OECD

The Implementation and Effectiveness of International Environmental Commitments David G. Victor, Kal Raustiala, Eugene B. Skolnikoff, 1998 Because environmental problems do not respect borders their solutions often require international cooperation and agreements The contributors to this book examine how international environmental agreements are put into practice Their main concern is effectiveness the degree to which such agreements lead to changes in behavior that help to solve environmental problems Their focus is on implementation the process that turns commitments into action at both domestic and international levels Implementation is the key to effectiveness because these agreements aim to constrain not just governments but a wide array of actors including individuals firms and agencies whose behavior does not change simply because governments have made international commitments The book is divided into two parts Part I looks at international systems for implementation review through which parties share information review performance handle noncompliance and adjust commitments Part II looks at implementation at the national level with particular attention to participation by governmental and nongovernmental actors and to problems in states with economies in transition The book includes fourteen case studies that cover eight major areas of international environmental regulation conservation and preservation of fauna and flora stratospheric ozone depletion pollution in the Baltic Sea pollution in the North Sea trade in hazardous chemicals and pesticides air pollution in Europe whaling and marine dumping of nuclear waste Contributors Steinar Andresen Juan Carlos di Primio Owen Greene Ronnie Hjorth Vladimir Kotov John Lanchbery Elena Nikitina Kal Raustiala Alexei Roginko Jon Birger Skj rseth Eugene B Skolnikoff Olav Schram Stokke David G Victor J rgen Wettstad Copublished with the International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis OECD Environmental
