This lavishly illustrated guidebook offers a beautiful tour and souvenir of the exciting collections. The Fossils section traces the history of life on earth from the earliest organisms to the great diversity of plants and animals in the modern world. Biology features living species including the incredible array of furry creatures in the brand new Kenneth E. Behring Family Hall of Mammals. Wilfried Wilms, William Rasch, 2006 Prompted by recent challenges to and debates about the relative public silence concerning the effects of the Allied air war over Europe during World War II this collection of essays examines literary visual film and photography and institutional museums representations of the bombing of civilian targets predominantly in Germany The authors examine narrative strategies of both well known and relatively little known works as well as the moral and ideological presuppositions of the varied representations of the depredations of total war The introduction and afterword by the editors invite the readers to expand the contours and historical context of the debates about the German public discourse on the bombing war beyond the narrow confines of perpetrators and victims The volume will be of interest to literary scholars historians and the general reading public interested in warfare and its effects on civilian populations

Curating America's Painful Past Tim Gruenewald, 2021-07-28 During the global Black Lives Matter protests of 2020 many called upon the United States to finally face its painful past Tim Gruenewald's new book is an in depth investigation of how that past is currently remembered at the national museums in Washington DC Curating America's Painful Past reveals how the tragic past is either minimized or framed in a way that does not threaten dominant national ideologies Gruenewald analyzes the National Museum of American History NMAH the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum USHMM the National Museum of African American History and Culture NMAAHC and the National Museum of the American Indian NMAI The NMAH the nation's most popular history museum serves as the benchmark for the imagination of US history and identity The USHMM opened in 1993 as the United States official Holocaust memorial and stands adjacent to the National Mall Gruenewald makes a persuasive case that the USHMM established a successful blueprint for narrating horrific and traumatic histories Curating America's Painful Past contrasts these two museums to ask why America's painful memories were largely absent from the memorial landscape of the National Mall and argues that social injustices in the present cannot be addressed until the nation's painful past is fully acknowledged and remembered It was only with the opening of the NMAAHC in 2016 that a detailed account of atrocities committed against African Americans appeared on the National Mall Gruenewald focuses on the museum's narrative structure in the context of national discourse to provide a critical reading of the museum When the NMAI opened in 2004 it presented for the first time a detailed history from a Native American perspective that sought to undo conventional museum narratives However criticism led to more traditional exhibitions and national focus Nevertheless the museum still marginalizes memories of the vast numbers of Indigenous victims to European colonization and to US expansion In a final chapter Gruenewald offers a thought experiment imagining a memory site like the recently opened National Memorial for Peace and Justice Montgomery Alabama situated on the National Mall so the reader can assess how profound an effect projects of national memory can have on facing the past as a matter of present justice

African Art Reframed Bennetta Jules-Rosette, J.R. Osborn, 2020-06-22 Once seen as a collection of artifacts and ritual objects African art now commands respect from museums and collectors Bennetta Jules Rosette and J R Osborn explore the reframing of African art through case studies of museums and galleries in the United States Europe and Africa

The authors take a three pronged approach Part One ranges from curiosity cabinets to virtual websites to offer a history of ethnographic and art museums and look at their organization and methods of reaching out to the public In the second part the authors examine museums as ecosystems and communities within communities and they use semiotic methods to analyze images signs and symbols drawn from the experiences of curators and artists The third part introduces innovative strategies for displaying disseminating and reclaiming African art The authors also propose how to reinterpret the art inside and outside the museum and show ways of remixing the results Drawing on extensive conversations with curators collectors and artists African Art Reframed is an essential guide to building new exchanges and connections in the dynamic worlds of African and global art
