Lp No Horizon Is So Far:

The Black Hole Information Paradox Ali Akil, Cosimo Bambi, 2025-09-30 This book reviews a few different derivations of the Hawking radiation most main solutions to the paradox proposed in the literature and some analog laboratory experiments A black hole is an object whose gravity is so strong that nothing not even light can escape its grasp However applying quantum field theory on a black hole background Stephen Hawking showed that black holes are not completely black In fact they seem to emit a form of radiation that was named the Hawking radiation The Hawking radiation appears to be thermal and in a quantum state that is independent of the initial state that formed the black hole instead it solely depends on the black hole's total mass spin and electric charge A problem arises when we consider an initial system that collapses forms a black hole and eventually the black hole evaporates completely through Hawking radiation Since Hawking radiation depends solely on the black hole's total mass spin and electric charge it implies that numerous distinct initial states could all lead to the same final state Consequently the intricate details of the initial state seem to be lost which contradicts the unitarity of evolution of closed systems a fundamental principle of quantum mechanics The unitarity principle implies that closed systems evolve in a reversible manner such that knowing a system's final state and the way it evolved one can always determine its initial state The many to one evolution of the black hole initial state to radiation evolution is in a clear contradiction with this principle This is the black hole information paradox The black hole information paradox was found in the 1970s by Stephen Hawking Over the past 50 years it has attracted a lot of interest in the theoretical physics community and is still an active research field Chapters are written by leading experts in the field Kliatt Young Adult Paperback Book Guide, 2005
