Ophthalmic Pathology Interactive with Clinical Correlation I. S. Othman, 2009 Ophthalmic pathology is a mainstay in ophthalmic practice A deep understanding of ophthalmic pathology is essential to being a good clinician since what is seen from other disease entities in ophthalmic practice is simply an interpretation of gross pathology and sometimes a microscopic evaluation of diseases Ophthalmic pathology is usually directed to ophthalmologists by general pathologists Ophthalmologists are not used to identifying diseases at a histopathological or cellular level The pathogenesis of diseases is dependent on ongoing changes over time something that is difficult to ill

Ophthalmic Histopathology W.R. Lee, 2013-04-17 This book has been written to give guidance to histopathologists who are dealing with pathological specimens submitted by ophthalmologists whether in a general pathology laboratory or in a specialist ophthalmic pathology laboratory The bias has been given to the diseases encountered commonly in the routine service or in the autopsy room and the intention is to show how to achieve the maximum information from each specimen Conventional textbooks deal with diseases of the eye on an anatomical basis but this is inappropriate for a histopathologist who is studying a globe in which the disease has varying effects on each of the individual tissue components While unconventional it seemed more acceptable to lay the book out under the relatively limited and broad headings which ophthalmologists use as indications for enucleation trauma tumour endophthalmitis vascular disease etc It also seemed logical to include a separate chapter on ocular disease as it is encountered in the autopsy room and continuing the theme to consider a keratoplasty specimen and the topics of orbital biopsy and conjunctival biopsy in separate chapters In each pathological process whenever appropriate it was important to include the effects of modern therapeutic measures because this is one of the main features of interest for the clinician For the beginner an introductory chapter on the techniques and rationale of the preliminary systematic macroscopic examination of a globe has been included with an account of the supplementary techniques which are essential for an accurate diagnosis

Vascular Tumors and Malformations of the Ocular Fundus J.J. de Laey,M. Hanssens,2012-12-06 This report for the Belgian Ophthalmological Society concerns a number of fundus diseases which most ophthalmologists only rarely encounter Still it is of importance that they should be able to recognize them not only because most of these eye diseases are treatable when they are diagnosed early enough but also because they are sometimes associated with major visceral and neurological problems The ophthalmologist may be the first practitioner to suspect a von Hippel Lindau s disease or a neurofibromatosis He should realize at that moment that his role is not only to treat the eyes but also to advise his patient refer him to other specialists and consider the genetical implications of his diagnosis Clinicopathologic correlations are of great importance and we felt that it was necessary to emphasize the histopathological aspect of these diseases A report has to overview the literature on a specific topic The literature on vascular tumors of the fundus is extremely vast and even if we tried to be as complete as possible we must confess that we did not cite every author who published on such cases A third aspect which was considered as important was to provide sufficient clinical and histopathologic examples of the various disease which are reviewed We are indebted to a large number of friends who kindly authorized the publication of their material In particular we wish thank Prof A Brini Strasbourg Dr D de Wolff Rouendaal Leiden Prof P
