Off on a Comet Jules Vern, 2009-04-16 Jules Verne's Off on a Comet 1877 part his The Extraordinary Voyages series is about some people who are condemned to live on a comet. They must form a civilized society braving out the adversities of life under harsh conditions.

Hector Servadac Jules Verne, 2015-06-26 Excerpt from Hector Servadac Among so many effective and artistic tales it is difficult to give a preference to one over all the rest. Yet certainly even amid Verne's remarkable works his Off on a Comet must be given high rank. Perhaps this story will be remembered when even Round the World in Eighty Days and Michael Strogoff have been obliterated by centuries of time. At least of the many books since written upon the same theme as Verne's no one has yet succeeded in equaling or even approaching it. In one way Off on a Comet shows a marked contrast to Verne's earlier books. Not only does it invade a region more remote than even the Trip to the Moon but the author here abandons his usual scrupulously scientific attitude. In order that he may escort us through the depths of immeasurable space show us what astronomy really knows of conditions there and upon the other planets Verne asks us to accept a situation frankly impossible. The earth and a comet arc brought twice into collision without mankind in general or even our astronomers becoming conscious of the fact. Moreover several people from widely scattered places are carried off by the comet and returned uninjured. Yet further the comet snatches for the convenience of its travelers both air and water. Little useful tracts of earth are picked up and as it zvere turned over and clapped down right side up again upon the comet's surface. Even ships pass uninjured through this remarkable somersault. These events all belong frankly to the realm of fairyland. If the situation were reproduced in actuality if ever a comet should come into collision with the earth we can conceive two scientifically possible results.

Off on a Comet Or Hector Servadac Jules Verne, 2021-03-31 The story begins with a comet which touches the earth in flight and picks up some small pieces of it.

Approximately 40 people of different countries and ages were sentenced to two years of sailing the comet. They form a small society and deal with the harsh environment of comets, especially the cold. The diameter of the comet is about 2,300 kilometers, much larger than any comet or asteroid that actually exists.
