Manliness And Its Discontents:

Manliness and Its Discontents Martin Summers, 2005-12-15 In a pathbreaking new assessment of the shaping of black male identity in the early twentieth century Martin Summers explores how middle class African American and African Caribbean immigrant men constructed a gendered sense of self through organizational life work leisure and cultural production Examining both the public and private aspects of gender formation Summers challenges the current trajectory of masculinity studies by treating black men as historical agents in their own identity formation rather than as screens on which white men projected their own racial and gender anxieties and desires Manliness and Its Discontents focuses on four distinct yet overlapping social milieus the fraternal order of Prince Hall Freemasonry the black nationalist Universal Negro Improvement Association or the Garvey movement the modernist circles of the Harlem Renaissance and the campuses of historically black Howard and Fisk Universities Between 1900 and 1930 Summers argues dominant notions of what it meant to be a man within the black middle class changed from a Victorian ideal of manliness characterized by the importance of producer values respectability and patriarchy to a modern ethos of masculinity which was shaped more by consumption physicality and sexuality Summers evaluates the relationships between black men and black women as well as relationships among black men themselves broadening our understanding of the way that gender works along with class sexuality and age to shape identities and produce relationships of power

Manliness and the Male Novelist in Victorian Literature Andrew Dowling, 2017-03-02 The purpose of this book is to address two principal questions Was the concept of masculinity a topic of debate for the Victorians and Why is Victorian literature full of images of male deviance when Victorian masculinity is defined by discipline In his introduction Dowling defines Victorian masculinity in terms of discipline He then addresses the central question of why an official ideal of manly discipline in the nineteenth century co existed with a literature that is full of images of male deviance In answering this question he develops a notion of hegemonic deviance whereby a dominant ideal of masculinity defines itself by what it is not Dowling goes on to examine the fear of effeminacy facing Victorian literary men and the strategies used to combat these fears by the nineteenth century male novelist In later chapters concentrating on Dickens and Thackeray he examines how the male novelist is defined against multiple images of unmanliness These chapters illustrate the investment made by men in constructing male others those sources of difference that are constantly produced and then crushed from within gender divide By analysing how Victorian literary texts both reveal and reconcile historical anxieties about the meaning of manliness Dowling argues that masculinity is a complex construction rather than a natural given

Freedom Struggles Adriane Lentz-Smith, 2011-09-30 For many of the 200 000 black soldiers sent to Europe with the American Expeditionary Forces in World War I encounters with French civilians and colonial African troops led them to imagine a world beyond Jim Crow. Lentz Smith narrates the efforts of these African American soldiers to gain full citizenship rights as recompense for military service.

Southern Masculinity Craig Thompson Friend, 2010-01-25 The follow up to the critically acclaimed collection Southern Manhood: Perspectives on Masculinity in the Old South (Georgia, 2004). Southern Masculinity explores the contours of southern male identity from Reconstruction to the present. Twelve case studies document the changing definitions of southern masculine identity as understood in conjunction with identities based on race, gender, age, sexuality, and geography. After the Civil War, southern men crafted notions of manhood in opposition to northern ideals of masculinity and as counterpoint to southern womanhood. At the same time, manliness in the South as understood by individuals and within communities retained and transformed antebellum conceptions of honor and mastery. This collection examines masculinity with respect to Reconstruction, the New South, racism, southern womanhood, the Sunbelt, gay rights, and the rise of the Christian Right. Familiar figures such as Arthur Ashe are investigated from fresh angles, while other essays plumb new areas such as the womanless wedding and Cherokee masculinity.

African American Nonfiction Books in the 21st Century Harry B. Dunbar, 2005 This work is essentially a bibliography consisting of a representative sampling of 58 nonfiction books published in the year 2004 about African Americans and about the issues that impacted and impact us, viewed in the context of the canon of 664 selected from those published in the last two decades of the twentieth century. The offerings of the mainstream press in the period 1939-1964 are cited as a backdrop. Ninety-one titles published over the years 2001 to 2003 constitute the sampling for that period. The surge in the publication of books in the canon at the end of the 20th century is analyzed.

Liquor in the Land of the Lost Cause Joe Coker, 2007-12-14 In the late 1800s, Southern evangelicals believed contemporary troubles, everything from poverty to political corruption to violence between African Americans and whites, sprang from the bottles of demon rum regularly consumed in the South. Though temperance quickly gained support in the antebellum North, Southerners cast a skeptical eye on the movement because of its ties with antislavery efforts. Postwar evangelicals quickly realized they had to make temperance appealing to the South by transforming the Yankee moral reform movement into something compatible with southern values and culture. In Liquor in the Land of the Lost Cause: Southern White Evangelicals and the Prohibition Movement, Joe L. Coker examines the tactics and results of temperance reformers between 1880 and 1915. Though their denominations traditionally forbade the preaching of politics from the pulpit, an outgrowth of evangelical fervor led ministers and their congregations to sound the call for prohibition. Determined to save the South from the evils of alcohol, they played on southern cultural attitudes about politics, race, women, and honor to communicate their message. The evangelicals were successful in their approach, negotiating such political obstacles as public disapproval, the church's role in politics, and vehement opposition to prohibition voiced by Jefferson Davis. The evangelical community successfully convinced the public that cheap liquor in the hands of African American beasts and drunkards husbands posed a serious threat to white women Eventually the code of honor that depended upon alcohol centered hospitality and camaraderie was redefined to favor those who lived as Christians and supported the prohibition movement Liquor in the Land of the Lost Cause is the first comprehensive survey of temperance in the South By tailoring the prohibition message to the unique context of the American South southern evangelicals transformed the region into a hotbed of temperance activity leading the national prohibition movement

Black Masculinity on Film Daniel O'Brien, 2017-09-06

This book provides wide ranging commentary on depictions of the black male in mainstream cinema O'Brien explores the extent to which counter representations of black masculinity have been achieved within a predominately white industry with an emphasis on agency the negotiation and malleability of racial status and the inherent instability of imposed racial categories Focusing on American and European cinema the chapters highlight actors Woody Strode Noble Johnson Eddie Anderson Will Smith genres jungle pictures westerns science fiction and franchises Tarzan James Bond underrepresented in previous critical and scholarly commentary in the field The author argues that although the characters and performances generated in these areas invoke popular genre types they display complexity diversity and ambiguity exhibiting aspects that are positive progressive and subversive This book will appeal to both the academic and the general reader interested in film race gender and colonial issues

Contesting Slave Masculinity in the American South David Stefan

Doddington, 2018-07-12 Highlights competing masculine values in slave communities and reveals how masculinity shaped resistance accommodation and survival

Coming of Age in Jim Crow DC Paula C. Austin, 2019-12-10 The fullest account to date of African American young people in a segregated city Coming of Age in Jim Crow DC offers a complex narrative of the everyday lives of black young people in a racially spatially economically and politically restricted Washington DC during the 1930s In contrast to the ways in which young people have been portrayed by researchers policy makers law enforcement and the media Paula C Austin draws on previously unstudied archival material to present black poor and working class young people as thinkers theorists critics and commentators as they reckon with the boundaries imposed on them in a Jim Crow city that was also the American emblem of equality The narratives at the center of this book provide a different understanding of black urban life in the early twentieth century showing that ordinary people were expert at navigating around the limitations imposed by the District of Columbia's racially segregated politics Coming of Age in Jim Crow DC is a fresh take on the New Negro movement and a vital contribution to the history of race in America

Modern Manhood and the Boy Scouts of America Benjamin René Jordan, 2016-03-07 In this illuminating look at gender and Scouting in the United States Benjamin Ren Jordan examines how in its founding and early rise the Boy Scouts of America BSA integrated traditional Victorian manhood with modern corporate industrial values and skills While showing how the BSA Americanized the original British Scouting program Jordan finds that the organization's community based activities signaled a shift in men's social norms away from rugged agricultural individualism or martial primitivism and toward productive employment in offices and factories stressing scientific cooperation and a pragmatic approach to the responsibilities of citizenship By examining the BSA's national reach and influence Jordan demonstrates surprising ethnic diversity and religious inclusiveness in the organization's founding decades For example Scouting officials preferred urban Catholic and Jewish working class immigrants and modernizable African Americans and Native Americans over rural whites and other traditional farmers who were seen as too backward to lead an increasingly urban industrial society In looking at the revered organization's past Jordan finds that Scouting helped to broaden mainstream American manhood by modernizing traditional Victorian values to better suit a changing nation

Race, Social Science and the Crisis of Manhood, 1890-1970 Malinda Elaine Lindquist, 2012-05-31 Black Social Science and the Crisis of Manhood 1890-1970 describes the young black male crisis why we are largely unfamiliar with the story of the black superman and why this matters to contemporary debates It does so by returning to the work of those original black social scientists to explore the ways in which they understood the challenges of black manhood offered substantive critiques of the nation's race class and gender systems and worked to construct a progression The careful study of their work reveals the centrality of gender to discussions of race and class and also new possibilities for understanding and discussing black men This book offers a look at pioneering black social scientists as well as a history of the changing perceptions ideals and shifting depictions of black and white manhood over nearly a century

Frank Merriwell and the Fiction of All-American Boyhood Ryan K. Anderson, 2015-09-09 Gilbert Patten writing as Burt L. Standish made a career of generating serialized twenty thousand word stories featuring his fictional creation Frank Merriwell a student athlete at Yale University who inspired others to emulate his example of manly boyhood Patten and his publisher Street and Smith initially had only a general idea about what would constitute Merriwell's adventures and who would want to read about them when they introduced the hero in the dime novel Tip Top Weekly in 1896 but over the years what took shape was a story line that capitalized on middle class fears about the insidious influence of modern life on the nation's boys Merriwell came to symbolize the Progressive Era debate about how sport and school made boys into men The saga featured the attractive Merriwell distinguishing between good and bad girls and focused on his squeaky clean adventures in physical development and mentorship By the serial's conclusion Merriwell had opened a school for weak and wayward boys that made him into a figure who taught readers how to approximate his example In Frank Merriwell and the Fiction of All American Boyhood Anderson treats Tip Top Weekly as a historical artifact supplementing his reading of its text illustrations reader letters and advertisements with his use of editorial correspondence memoirs trade journals and legal documents Anderson blends social and cultural history with the history of business gender and sport along with a general examination of childhood and youth in this fascinating study of how a fictional character was used to promote a homogeneous normal American boyhood rooted in an assumed pecking order of class race and gender
