The Neurophysiological Bases of Auditory Perception
Enrique Lopez-Poveda, Alan R. Palmer, Ray Meddis, 2010-03-23 This volume contains the papers presented at the 15th International Symposium on Hearing ISH which was held at the Hotel Regio Santa Marta de Tormes Salamanca Spain between 1st and 5th June 2009 Since its inception in 1969 this Symposium has been a forum of excellence for debating the neurophysiological basis of auditory perception with computational models as tools to test and unify physiological and perceptual theories Every paper in this symposium includes two of the following auditory physiology psychophysics or modeling The topics range from cochlear physiology to auditory attention and learning While the symposium is always hosted by European countries participants come from all over the world and are among the leaders in their fields The result is an outstanding symposium which has been described by some as a world summit of auditory research The current volume has a bottom up structure from simpler physiological to more complex perceptual phenomena and follows the order of presentations at the meeting Parts I to III are dedicated to information processing in the peripheral auditory system and its implications for auditory masking spectral processing and coding Part IV focuses on the physiological bases of pitch and timbre perception Part V is dedicated to binaural hearing Parts VI and VII cover recent advances in understanding speech processing and perception and auditory scene analysis Part VIII focuses on the neurophysiological bases of novelty detection attention and learning

Listening to Speech Steven Greenberg, William Ainsworth, 2012-12-06 The human species is largely defined by its use of spoken language so integral is speech communication to behavior and social interaction Despite its importance in everyday life comparatively little is known about the auditory mechanisms that underlie the ability to understand language The current volume examines the perception and processing of speech from the perspective of the hearing system The chapters in this book describe a comprehensive set of approaches to the scientific study of speech and hearing ranging from anatomy and physiology to psychophysics and perception and computational modeling The auditory basis of speech is examined within a biological and an evolutionary context and its relevance to applied domains such as communication disorders and speech technology discussed in detail This volume will be of interest to scientists engineers and clinicians whose professional work pertains to any aspect of spoken language or hearing science
