Progress In International Organization:

Progress in International Law Russell A. Miller, Rebecca M. Bratspies, 2008 Progress in International Law is a comprehensive accounting of international law for our times Forty leading international law theorists analyze the most significant current issues in international law and their critical assessments draw diverse conclusions about the current state and future prospects of international law The material is grouped under the headings The History and Theory of International Law The Sources of International Law and Their Application in the United States International Actors International Jurisdiction and International Jurisprudence The Use of Force and the World's Peace and The Challenge of Protecting the Environment and Human Rights The book draws its inspiration from a similar survey undertaken in 1932 by Harvard Law Professor and PCIJ Judge Manley O Hudson In his book Progress in International Organization Hudson sought to demonstrate that what he perceived as an emerging international infrastructure and as moves toward the rule of law in international affairs were sure signs of human progress towards peace and cooperation Progress in International Law critically engages with that claim as a normative matter and at the same time presents the evidence by which a judgment about our own progress towards peace and cooperation might be judged

Progress in International Relations Theory Colin Elman, Miriam Fendius Elman, 2003-08-29 All academic disciplines periodically appraise their effectiveness evaluating the progress of previous scholarship and judging which approaches are useful and which are not Although no field could survive if it did nothing but appraise its progress occasional appraisals are important and if done well can help advance the field This book investigates how international relations theorists can better equip themselves to determine the state of scholarly work in their field It takes as its starting point Imre Lakatos's influential theory of scientific change and in particular his methodology of scientific research programs MSRP It uses MSRP to organize its analysis of major research programs over the last several decades and uses MSRP's criteria for theoretical progress to evaluate these programs The contributors appraise the progress of institutional theory varieties of realist and liberal theory operational code analysis and other research programs in international relations Their analyses reveal the strengths and limits of Lakatosian criteria and the need for metatheoretical metrics for evaluating scientific progress

Membership in International Organizations Gerd Droege, 2019-12-19 This book proposes that fundamental concepts of institutional law need to be rethought and revised Contrary to conventional wisdom international organizations do not need to have members and the members do not need to be states and international organizations Private sector entities may for instance also be full members Furthermore international organizations do not need to possess international legal personality nor is their autonomy a corollary of their personality Moreover the notion of subject of international law also needs to be reconsidered and the very concepts and definitions of intergovernmental organization and international organization need to change and be defined in a wider manner In this publication the legal implications of membership are analyzed and a new analytical framework for international organizations is proposed The argument is propounded that the power of creation of new organizations has passed over to international organizations and other entities while an outlook on future development is also presented Dr Gerd Droege is a recognized specialist in institutional law international administrative law complex institutional and financial policy matters and corporate governance issues with over 30 years of experience in working for international organizations in senior and management positions He was the Legal Counsel Acting General Counsel of the Green Climate Fund and assisted the World Green Economy Organization as General Counsel in its transition to a new type of intergovernmental organization
