PROJECT MANAGEMENT TERMS YOU SHOULD KNOW

PURPOSE

Without purpose, it's hard for teams to exert the extra effort to get things done. Before you start, organize a kick-off meeting, and define the goal and what you're trying to achieve.

GOAL

Goals provide focus on how to design a road map to fulfill the objective. They should be S.M.A.R.T.: Specific, Measurable, Achievable, Relevant and Time-bound.

RESOURCES

Identify the resources required from capital, people, equipment, space, time and anything else needed to get the job done. Without the right resources, a project will fall short.

CAPABILITIES

People are the most important resource of all. Go with those who have the skills, experience and will to achieve at the highest level.

DECISIONS

Be clear about who can make what decision, what needs to be vetted by a committee and how quick decisions are made. If too many people are involved, the risk of falling into an analysis paralysis increases. Make sure you have the right people making the best possible decisions at all critical junctures.

DEBATES

Try to analyze a situation from multiple angles. Encourage your team to explore all possibilities, list the most viable options and then select the best one. Instigate a healthy debate to explore opposite sides, so when it comes down to deciding you have considered most factors.

TARGET DATE

Time is a very important factor, and your team must complete tasks on time to achieve the project by its deadline. If not, it will take more resources to achieve the same goal.

EXPLORATION

Go through every possible option available. Weigh pros and cons carefully, and try to come up with the option that adds the most value.

TRANSPARENCY

Know who is working on what, and what is or is not getting their tasks done on time. Without transparency, problems are likely to stay hidden and get worse. It's much better to raise red flags and work collaboratively on solving problems early.

PRIORITIES

Put priorities under constant review, as what is important today might not be as important tomorrow. Your team must know how the context changes, so you can adjust the plan accordingly.

ACCOUNTABILITY

This should not be confused with responsibility. Teams can share accountability, but individuals within a team are responsible for getting tasks done.

RED FLAGS

Create an environment where people are willing to raise issues if they see something wrong. Teams must work together to solve problems and trust each other to give their real opinions.

CRITICAL PATH

This term refers to the longest pathway to achieving a result that depends on the execution of numerous processes. Make sure to identify the critical path throughout the duration of the project. It may shift depending on the nature of the project you're working on.
