World War II, Film, and History John Whiteclay Chambers II, David Culbert, 1996-10-10 The immediacy and perceived truth of the visual image as well as film and television's ability to propel viewers back into the past place the genre of the historical film in a special category War films including antiwar films have established the prevailing public image of war in the twentieth century For American audiences the dominant image of trench warfare in World War I has been provided by feature films such as All Quiet on the Western Front and Paths of Glory The image of combat in the Second World War has been shaped by films like Sands of Iwo Jima and The Longest Day And despite claims for the alleged impact of widespread television coverage of the Vietnam War it is actually films such as Apocalypse Now and Platoon which have provided the most powerful images of what is seen as the reality of that much disputed conflict But to what degree does history written with lightning as Woodrow Wilson allegedly said represent the reality of the past To what extent is visual history an oversimplification or even a distortion of the past Exploring the relationship between moving images and the society and culture in which they were produced and received World War II Film and History addresses the power these images have had in determining our perception and memories of war Examining how the public memory of war in the twentieth century has often been created more by a manufactured past than a remembered one a leading group of historians discusses films dating from the early 1930s through the early 1990s created by filmmakers the world over from the United States and Germany to Japan and the former Soviet Union For example Freda Freiberg explains how the inter-racial melodramatic Japanese feature film China Nights in which a manly and protective Japanese naval officer falls in love with a beautiful young Chinese street waif and molds her into a cultured submissive wife proved enormously popular with wartime Japanese and helped justify the invasion of China in the minds of many Japanese viewers Peter Paret assesses the historical accuracy of Kolberg as a depiction of an unsuccessful siege of that German city by a French Army in 1807 and explores how the film released by Hitler's regime in January 1945 explicitly called for civilian sacrifice and last ditch resistance Stephen Ambrose contrasts what we know about the historical reality of the Allied D Day landings in Normandy on June 6 1944 with the 1962 release of The Longest Day in which the major climactic moment in the film never happened at Normandy Alice Kessler Harris examines The Life and Times of Rosie the Riveter a 1982 film documentary about women defense workers on the American home front in World War II emphasizing the degree to which the documentary's engaging main characters and its message of the need for fair and equal treatment for women resonates with many contemporary viewers And Clement Alexander Price contrasts Men of Bronze William Miles's fine documentary about black American soldiers who fought in France in World War I with Liberators the controversial documentary by Miles and Nina Rosenblum which incorrectly claimed that African American troops liberated Holocaust survivors at Dachau in World War II In today's visually oriented world powerful images even images of images are circulated in an eternal cycle gaining increased acceptance through repetition History becomes an endless loop in which repeated images validate and reconfirm each other Based on archival materials many of which have become only recently available World War II Film and History offers an informative and a disturbing look at the complex relationship between national myths and filmic memory as well as the dangers of visual images being transformed into reality Performing Difference Jonathan C.

Friedman, 2008-12-24 Performing Difference is a compilation of seventeen essays from some of the leading scholars in history criticism film and theater studies Each author examines the portrayal of groups and individuals that have been traditionally marginalized or excluded from dominant historical narratives As a meeting point of several fields of study this book is organized around three meta themes race gender and genocide Included are analyses of films and theatrical productions from the United States as well as essays on cinema from Southern and Central America Europe and the Middle East Typically the contributing authors write about the depiction of race ethnicities gender and sexual orientation and genocides This volume assesses how the performing arts have aided in the social construction of the other in differing contexts Its fundamental premise is that performance is powerful and its unifying thesis is that the arts remain a major forum for advancing a more nuanced and humane vision of social outcasts not only in the realm of national imaginations but in social relations as well American Culture in the 1940s Jacqueline Foertsch, 2008-03-27 This book explores the major cultural forms of 1940s America fiction and non fiction music and radio film and theatre serious and popular visual arts and key texts trends and figures from Native Son to Citizen Kane from Hiroshima to HUAC and from Dr Seuss to Bob Hope After discussing the dominant ideas that inform the 1940s the book culminates with a chapter on the culture of war Rather than splitting the decade at 1945 Jacqueline Foertsch argues persuasively that the 1940s should be taken as a whole seeking out links between wartime and postwar American culture America Between the Wars, 1919-1941 David Welky, 2012-01-17 This collection situates over seventy essential primary documents in their historical context to illustrate the American experience during the interwar era 1919-1941 Introduces a broad range of cultural and historical topics from race and the role of women to trends in literature and the Great Depression Includes a range of photographs and illustrations End of

Shiovitz,2023 How and why was outdated racial content and specifically blackface minstrelsy not only permitted but in fact allowed to thrive during the 1930s and 1940s despite the rigid motion picture censorship laws which were enforced during this time Introducing a new theory of covert minstrelsy this book illuminates Hollywood s practice of capitalizing on the Africanist aesthetic at the expense of Black lived experience Through close examination of the musicals made during this period this book shows how Hollywood utilized a series of covert guises or subterfuges complicated and further masked by a film s narrative framing and novel technology to distract both censors and audiences from seeing the ways in which they were being fed a nineteenth century White narrative of Blackness Drawing on the annals of Hollywood s most popular and its extremely rare films Behind the Screen uncovers a half century of blackface application by delicately removing the individual layers of disguise through close analyses of films which paint tap dance swing and other predominantly Africanist forms in a negative light This book goes beneath the image of recognizable White performers including Al Jolson Eddie Cantor Fred Astaire and Eleanor Powell exploring the high cost of their onscreen representational politics The book also recuperates the stories of several of the Black artists whose labor was abused during the choreographic and filming process Some of the many newly documented stories include those of The Three Chocolateers The Three Eddies The Three Gobs The Peters Sisters Jeni Le Gon and Cora La Redd In stripping away the various disguises involved during Hollywood s Golden Age Behind the Screen recovers the visibility of Black artists whose names Hollywood omitted from the credits and whose identities America has written out of the national narrative

Post-9/11 Cinema John Markert, 2011-08-05 In contemporary society cinema has become a primary way in which people gain knowledge about events taking place in the world Films often go beyond news reports by showing in depth behind the scenes footage whether in a documentary or recreated in fictional features More than fleeting scenes of events shown on the nightly news a film can influence people's feelings about war and what our political leaders should do about it This has certainly been the case since the attack on 9 11 and the subsequent incursions into Iraq and Afghanistan In Post 9 11 Cinema Through a Lens Darkly John Markert takes a close look at the films depicting these events Covering cinematic portrayals of 9 11 and the attacks that followed this book examines both dramas and documentaries that depict what some have termed Bush's war as well as rebuttal films films about terrorist activities and films seen from the vantage point of journalists and military personnel Post 9 11 Cinema not only shows how motion pictures reflect societal values but also how such works can influence social attitudes and thus promote change In addition Markert appraises the film industry and critiques how images are manipulated to sway the viewer to appreciate the side being advocated Examining such dramas as The Messenger Stop Loss The Lucky Ones In the Valley of Elah and The Hurt Locker as well as documentaries including Fahrenheit 9 11 Soldiers of Conscience and Taxi to the Dark Side Post 9 11 Cinema is a valuable read for professors of media and mass communication popular culture and film studies as well as cultural sociologists
