The Cries of the Christ From the Cross Robert L. Moyer,2016-04-28 In days of stereotyped thinking when almost every utterance is a repetition of something that has oft been said before it is refreshing to meet a stream of originality Those of us who know and love Robert Moyer however could expect nothing less than brilliant originality when he puts his thoughts in the concrete form of a printed page The student of the Word of God will find food for meditation in these paragraphs from his gifted pen There is no man in America whose works and words should count more for the spread of God s kingdom in the hearts of men than the man whose writing you now hold in your hand It is our hope and confident trust that this volume is but the first of many that shall come from this source If this hope is fulfilled the

Chaucerian Spaces William F. Woods, 2008-06-30 Chaucerian Spaces explores the affect and the significance of space and place in the first six tales in Chaucer's Canterbury Tales Relatively little has been written about space in the Canterbury Tales yet the rewards for attending to this aspect of Chaucer's aesthetic are considerable Space indicates the potential for characteristic action development and a more profound expression of being In these tales characters inhabit a landscape and places within it that express their inner life Emelye in her garden Palamon and Arcite in the grove all occupy spaces or places that manifest social destiny and individual intention Space and subjectivity change as territories give way to households and the horizons of consciousness shrink to the core of human intent Most striking is the transformation of women in place Emelye Alyson even Custance and the Wife of Bath dwell in places that express their social and economic potential They are in place but place is also in them they merge in metaphor with the places that express them bringing the reader closer to the sensible reflective experience of the medieval subject

The Ocean of the Soul Ritter, 2021-12-28 The Ocean of the Soul is one of the great works of the German Orientalist Hellmut Ritter 1892-1971 It presents a comprehensive analysis of the writings of the mystical Persian poet Farid al-Din A'r who is thought to have died at an advanced age in April 1221 when the Mongols destroyed his home city of Nishapur in the northeast of Iran The book which resulted from decades of investigation of literary and historical sources was first published in 1955 and has since remained unsurpassed not only as the definitive study of A'r's world of ideas but as an indispensable guide to understanding pre-modern Islamic literature in general Quoting at length from A'r and other Islamic sources Ritter sketches an extraordinarily vivid portrait of the Islamic attitude toward life characteristic developments in pious and ascetic circles and in conclusion various dominant mystical currents of thought and feeling Special attention is given to a wide range of views on love love in all its manifestations including homosexuality and the commonplace self-adoration of good-looking youths Ritter's approach is throughout based on precise philological interpretation of primary sources several of which he has himself made available in critical editions

The Promise Virginia Jacober, 2007-01-01 Virginia Jacober was just a young teenager when God gave her a distinct promise accompanied by a clear vision of her future She could not know then the intricacies of the path that would lead to the fulfillment of the promise After 20 years of ministry in India the Jacobers unexpectedly returned to America But once more there was a specific promise from the Lord a promise that would be realized in a most delightful way but only after a 10-year detour to the Arabs and Bedouins of Israel This is a story of sacrificial ministry combined with a perspective on the Arab-Israeli conflict that won't be found on CNN

Death and Beyond Edwin L. Woolsey,2021-06-23 Search the scriptures for in them ye think ye have eternal life and they are they which testify of me John 5 39 A mysterious disconnect exists between the amount of biblical material about death and Western theology s scant reliance on that body of Scripture to universally explain what happens when life ends In a vague way we assume to understand what occurs after our last breath but do we really Can we say with surety what happens next Where precisely do we go and when do we get there Are we able to point to ancient authoritative sources and say See here it is Due to the fuzzy nature or our current ideas the hodgepodge of religious speculations dealing with the afterlife are more likely an outgrowth of popular culture religious songs and anecdotal stories instead of solid biblical texts or early Judeo Christian orthodoxy This quandary is probably a modern anomaly since medieval society was more familiar with the certainty of dying than we are The disassociation with spiritual reality might be a product of advancements in science and medicine that give us a false notion of immortality however nothing could be farther from the truth Unquestionably we will all die and guaranteed that fact a knowledge of what immediately follows the cessation of life is an asset worth having not only for peace of mind here but also for advanced preparation until we get there especially regarding faith based groups like Christianity If anyone should master the questions and answers dealing with the transition between life and death it should be the Church Maybe the somber nature of death makes us avoid the subject or possibly the opposite is true Our illiteracy of God s Word might be the reason death seems so cryptic and foreboding thus creating our shortsighted ignorance of the topic Regardless Jesus admonished us to pull our heads from the sand search the Scripture and make sure that our doctrines actually match God s source material hence the purpose of this book
